PREFACE.

This work represents a new and thoroughly revised edition of a Tibetan-German Dictionary, which appeared in a lithographed form between the years 1871 and 1876.

During a residence, which commenced in 1857 and extended over a number of years, on the borders of Tibet and among Tibetan tribes, I and my colleagues gathered the materials for this Dictionary.

We had to take primarily into account the needs of missionaries entering upon new regions, and then of those who might hereafter follow into the same field of enterprise. The chief motive of all our exertions lay always in the desire to facilitate and to hasten the spread of the Christian religion and of Christian civilization, among the millions of Buddhists, who inhabit Central Asia, and who speak and read in Tibetan idioms.

A yet more definite object influenced my own personal linguistic researches, in as much as I had undertaken to make preparations for the translation of the Holy Scriptures into the Tibetan speech. I approached and carried forward this task by way of a careful examination of the full sense and exact range of words in their ordinary and common usage. For it seemed to me that, if Buddhist readers were to be brought into contact with Biblical and Christian ideas, the introduction to so foreign and strange a train of thought, and one making the largest demands upon the character and the imagination, had best be made through the medium of a phraseology and diction as simple, as clear, and as popular as possible. My instrument must be, as in the case of every successful translator of the Bible, so to say, not a technical, but the vulgar tongue.

Thus, in contrast to the business of the European philologist, engaged in the same domain, who quite rightly occupies himself with the analysis and commentary of a literary language, the vocabulary and terminology of which he finds mainly deposited in the speculative writings of the Buddhist philosophers, it became my duty to embrace every opportunity, with which my presence on the spot favoured me, to trace the living powers of words and of expressions through their consecutive historical applications, till I reached their last signification in their modern equivalents, as these are embodied in the provincial dialects of the native tribes of our own time.

These circumstances, it is hoped, will excuse and explain the system of my work.

As an inventory of the whole treasure of the language, as a finished key to its literature, this Dictionary, when judged by the high standard of modern lexicography, may seem inadequate; I have, for instance, been unable to consult, much as I could have wished to have done so, all the original and translated treatises in Tibetan which, down to the present, have appeared in Europe, and the reader of a Tibetan work may thus, here and there, look in vain for the assistance he expects. On the other hand, a consistent attempt is here made for the first time, 1. to give a rational account of the development of the values and meanings of words in this language; 2. to distinguish precisely the various transitions in periods of literature and varieties of dialect; 3. to make sure of each step by the help of accurate and copious illustrations and examples. I have done my utmost to arrive at certainty where, heretofore, much was mere guess-work, and I cherish the hope that, from this point of view, my contribution will be welcomed by the comparative philologist, and will be serviceable to the general cause of learning, as well as a useful volume within that narrower circle, whose requirements I was specially bound not to overlook, of persons whose main purpose is to be taught how to write and speak the modern Tibetan tongue.

There are two chief periods of literary activity to be noticed in studying the origin and growth of Tibetan literature and the landmarks in the history of the language. The first is the Period of Translations which, however, might also be entitled the Classical Period, for the sanctity of the religious message conferred a corresponding reputation and tradition of excellence upon the form, in which it was conveyed. This period begins in the first half of the seventh century, when Thonmi Sambhota, the minister of king Srongtsangampo, was sent to India to learn Sanskrit. His invention of the Tibetan alphabet gave a twofold impulse: for several centuries the wisdom of India and the ingenuity of Tibet laboured in unison and with the greatest industry and enthusiasm at the work of translation. The tribute due to real genius must be awarded to these early pioneers of Tibetan grammar. They had to grapple with the infinite wealth and refinement of Sanskrit, they had to save the independence of their own tongue, while they strove to subject it to the rule of scientific principles, and it is most remarkable, how they managed to produce translations at once literal and faithful to the spirit of the original. The first masters had made for their later disciples a comparatively easy road, for the style and contexts of the writings, with which the translators had to deal, present very uniform features. When once typical patterns had been furnished, it was possible for the literary manufacture to be extended by a sort of mechanical process.

A considerable time elapsed before natives of Tibet began to indulge in compositions of their own. When they did so, the subject matter, chosen by them to operate upon, was either of an historical or a legendary kind. In this Second Period the language shows much resemblance to the modern tongue, approaching most closely the present idiom of Central Tibet. We find a greater freedom in construction, a tendency to use abbreviated forms (thus the mere verbal root is often inflected in the place of a complete infinitive), and a certain number of new grammatical combinations.

The present language of the people has as many dialects, as the country has provinces. Indeed, as in most geographically similar districts, well nigh every separate mountain valley has its own singularities as to modes of utterance and favourite collocations of words. Especially is it interesting to note, in respect to pronunciation, how the old consonants, which would seem to have been generally sounded and spoken twelve centuries ago, when the Tibetan written character came into existence, and which, at any rate, are marked by the primitive system of writing, remain still extant; every one of them can still be disintegrated, somewhere or other, from some local peculiarity of language, and thus even the very diversity of modern practice can be made to bear testimony to the standards imposed by what was termed above the Classical Period. (Compare my Essay on the Phonetic System of the Tibetan language in the Monthly Reports of the Royal Academy of Science at Berlin 1867, p. 148 etc.)

I have already adverted to the circumstances which, especially in the case of the student, who has for immediate object to learn how to read and write the Tibetan language, render existing dictionaries almost if not quite useless. They give but scanty information concerning modes of construction, variations and limits of actual application, shades of meaning etc. In my own case, I was forced from the beginning to compile my own German-Tibetan dictionary, and found myself for all practical purposes thrown back upon my own resources. But the cause of truth appears to require a further word or two in regard to the Lexicon by Professor I. J. Schmidt of St. Petersburg, the relation of that work to its predecessors having been left by its author in some obscurity.

The first Tibetan dictionary, intended for European students, was published at Serampore, as long ago as 1826. It contains the collections, amassed in view of a dictionary and grammar, by a Roman Catholic missionary, who was stationed in eastern Tibet or close to the frontier in Bhotan. There was nothing to assist him, except the scanty contributions, given by Georgi, in his Alphabetum Tibetanum. He had to cope with an entirely unworked language. He evidently took the one way possible of making acquaintance with it, sufficient to enable him to understand, to speak, to read and write. Each word or sentence was jotted down, as soon as it was heard, or was committed to writing, at the request of the learner, by some native expert. After a while, the attempt could be made to master a book. In the instance of our missionary, Padma Sambhava's book of legends appears to have been selected, a work which represents rather a low level of literature, yet just on that account, perhaps, as a specimen of popular and current literature, not unsuitable to start from. Then, step by step, as best he could, our missionary had to possess himself of some abstract views, which would serve as a preliminary basis for a grammar. And had it been granted to this first occupant of the field to reduce his materials to an ordered system and to prepare them himself for publication, it is possible, that in Europe the knowledge of the Tibetan language might have reached, some fifty years earlier, the stage at which it has now arrived. The very name of that Roman Catholic missionary, however, has been lost. The papers which he left behind him, unsorted and unsifted, came into the hands of Major Latter, an English officer, and were passed on by him to Mr. Schröter, a missionary in Bengal. English was substituted for the Italian of the manuscript, and the East India Company made a grant which defrayed the cost of the Tibetan types and the further expenses of printing. But there was no Tibetan scholar to correct the proofs. The author himself would doubtless, on reconsideration, have detected and dismissed much erroneous or unnecessary matter. As it was, many additional mistakes crept in during the passage through the press. Thus the work, though it has a richer vocabulary than can be found in the later dictionaries, cannot on any questionable point be accepted as an authority, and has only value for those who are already competent, for themselves, to weigh and decide upon the statements and interpretations it advances. I have not been able to extract from it much that was serviceable to me. Nevertheless, any one who knows by experience what time and toil such a work must have cost, though its design remained unfulfilled and its object unaccomplished, will not easily be able to repress his indignation at the tone, in which this book in the preface to his Grammar (p. VI) is recklessly and absolutely condemned by Professor Schmidt.

High praise, however, is awarded by the Professor to a second work, the Tibetan-English Dictionary by Csoma de Kőrös, which appeared in 1834. This work deserves all eulogy; but the Professor's manner, which imitates that of a master commending a pupil, is, though on other grounds, as unwarranted and as offensive in this as in the former case. The work of Csoma de Kőrös is that of an original investigator and the fruit of almost unparalleled determination and patience. The compiler, in order to dedicate himself to the study of Tibetan literature, lived like a monk for years among the inmates of a Tibetan monastery. It is to be regretted that, with the knowledge he certainly must have possessed of the later language and literature, he should have restricted the scope of his labours to the earlier periods of literature, and when in his Grammar conversational phrases are quoted as examples, they are almost without exception in the dialect of the Kangyur, and of little practical value.

This Tibetan-English dictionary by Csoma has been adapted for a German public by Professor I. J. Schmidt of St. Petersburg. The translation from English into German is good; in the general alphabetical arrangement improvements have been introduced, and such as are in conformity with the spirit of the language; moreover, three Mongolian dictionaries have been consulted, and from these a certain number of words have been supplemented. But it cannot be said that even on the work of revision Professor Schmidt has bestowed much pains. For example, Csoma's rough grouping of words under the principal headings is left unaltered, though here especially a reduction to alphabetical order was obviously required. Mistakes and superfluities, very pardonable in the case of a first issue of an original publication, are repeated in this translation, and these cannot be so readily overlooked and condoned, when they are made at second hand, and are sanctioned and subscribed to by one, who has assumed so severe a critical and editorial attitude.

The national dictionaries of Tibet itself, so far as I have met with such, are either little handbooks, meant only to furnish a correct orthography, or they are glossaries of antiquated forms. The absence of an alphabetical order in them makes the business of reference very troublesome. It is by great good luck that one sometimes finds an otherwise unknown word after a prolonged search.

My own dictionary, in the main, pursues the object and accepts the plan of the work, which was published by Mr. Schröter. As I said at the beginning, I have not restricted myself to the Classical Period, but I have endeavoured to deal with the Tibetan language as a whole, though I do not pretend to have performed this task exhaustively. My dictionary derives its matter and its principles, so far as possible, equally from the literature and from the speech of the people. Each word has been made the object of observation in its relation to the context as it occurs in books, and in its value and place among others when it is used in common conversation, and then the attempt has been made to define its range and to fix its meaning.

All the words, cited by Csoma and Schmidt, even such as I myself had never seen or heard, I have embodied in this work, stating, in each case, the source from whence I drew them.

The signification in Sanskrit has been added, whenever this seemed likely to be useful or interesting to the student of Tibetan literature. Of proper names only the most important are given.

The great number of diacritical marks will perhaps prove irksome to the English reader; yet, they were not to be dispensed with, if the pronunciation of Tibetan letters and words was to be represented with any degree of exactness, and the method of Prof. Lepsius seemed the most eligible among all the systems available for my purpose. The student, however, need not be disheartened, as he is not obliged to make himself acquainted with all the minutiae of the system, but need only direct his attention to the peculiarities of that dialect, within the limits of which his inquiries, for the time, are confined. And by-the-by it may be observed, that the multitude of little marks, of manifold description, cannot be startling to the Indian reader, who was ever necessitated to make himself familiar with systems quite as complicated, as e.g. the Urdu alphabet.

One word more of apology. Of publications in general it has been said, that "when human care has done its best, there will be found a certain percentage of error". And the probability is but too great, that this dictionary will exhibit a number of deficiencies and faults, in the English text as well as in the Tibetan transcript. Still, I venture to hope that an indulgent Public will be ready to make every reasonable allowance, in consideration of the peculiar difficulties, which attach to the execution of a work like the present, and which, moreover, were not a little increased, in this instance, by the fact that the compositors of the press were altogether unacquainted with English.

I should be guilty of great ingratitude, if I were not to mention my obligations to two friends, without whose kind and efficient aid it would have been impossible for me, in my present infirm state, to complete this work, which was commenced in the days of health and vigour, viz. to the Rev. T. Reichelt, formerly a Missionary of the Moravian Church in South Africa, and to Mr. F. W. Petersen, a relative of mine.

Further, I desire to record my obligations for various acts of kindness, encouragement, assistance and advice, during the prosecution of my researches and the completion of my work, to A. C. Burnell Esq. M. R. A. S., in India; Dr. E. Schlagintweit in Bavaria, Dr. Thomson and Dr. Aitchison of Kew, Dr. Kurz of Calcutta, and R. Laing Esq. M. A., Fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.

Not the least debt of gratitude is that which I owe to Dr. R. Rost in London, Secretary of the Royal Asiatic Society, to whose exertions, indeed, the execution of this work is, properly speaking, entirely due, inas much as he kindly interested the Indian Government on behalf of my undertaking.

INTRODUCTION.

I. THE TIBETAN ALPHABET.

CONSONANTS.

The names of all the Consonants sound in a, pronounced like the a in the English word 'far'.

ཀ ka pronounced like the French c — car	མ ma mart
ཁ ka like the English c or k — cart	ཅ tsa (ts) parts
ག ga harder than the English (hard) g	ཆ tsa (aspirated)
ང na ng — pang	ཇ dza (ds) — guards
ཉ ca the soft English g — ginger	ཉ wa waft
ཏ ca ch — chart	འ za (zh) like the English s in leisure
ཐ ja j — jar	ཨ za like the English z — zeal
ཌ nya the French gn — campagne	ཨ a (basis for vowels)
ཎ ta the French t — tard	ཨ*) ya yard
ཏ ta the English t — tart	ཨ) ra rasp
ཌ da dart	ཨ la last
ཏ na nard	ཨ sa (sh) — sharp
ཏ pa the French p — pas	ཨ sa salve
ཏ pa the English p — part	ཨ ha half
ཏ ba bard	ཨ 'a (basis for vowels)

*) ཨ ya, when combined, as second consonant, with k- and p-sounds, or with m, is written under the first letter, assuming the shape of ཨ, thus ཀྱ kya, རྱ pya, མྱ mya etc.

) ཨ ra, when combined as second letter, with k-, t- and p-sounds is written under the first, in the shape of ཨ, thus: ཀྱ kra, རྱ tra, རྱ bra etc. — When combined with another consonant as first letter, it is written over the second, thus: ཀྱ rka, རྱ rna, རྱ rda etc., but it is seldom heard in speaking.

The so-called Sanskrit Cerebrals are represented in Tibetan letters by ར, ར, ར, ར, ར, and when in this dictionary they are transcribed, they are marked by a dot underneath: t, ṭ, d, n, ś.

The figure < (wa-zur or small wa) attached to the foot of a letter, is often used to distinguish homonyms in writing, e.g. ཚ tsa hot and ཚྭ tsa (tswa) salt.

The dot, which stands at the end of every syllable and of every word, is called Tseg (tseg) and is indispensable for a correct writing or reading.

When ག stands as a prefix, it is, when transcribed, represented by γ, e.g. གཅིག་ γèig, གཏམ་ γtam etc.

VOWELS.

The alphabetical order of the vowels is: a, i, u, e, o; they have in Tibetan the same sound as they have in German, Italian, and most other European languages: a sounds like the English a in 'far', i like ee in 'peer' or i in 'pin', u like u in 'rule' or in 'pull', e like a in 'fate' or e in 'met', o like o in 'note' or in 'not'.

As the vowel a is inherent in every consonant, so that even a single letter may form a word, e.g. འ ba (cow), ས sa (earth), there is no special character or letter required for this vowel. The other four vowels are represented by little hooks, ི standing for i, ུ for u, ེ for e, ེ for o. The marks for i, e, o are placed over the letter, that for u under it. Examples: པད་མ་ pad-ma, རི་ ri, མི་ me, འུ་མོ་ bu-mo.

The letter ཨ is used as a basis for initial vowels, thus: ཨ་མ་ 'a-ma; the letter འ serves as a basis for initial and final vowels: འོ་མ་ o-ma, དགའ་ dga.

The vowel-sounds of འ, when transcribed, are indicated by the mark འ: འ a, འི i, འུ u, འེ e, འོ o, whilst the ཨ-vowels are denoted by the mark ' placed over the respective letters: ཨ 'a, ཨི 'i, ཨུ 'u, ཨེ 'e, ཨོ 'o. — The real nature of the letters འ and ཨ is treated of in the latter part of the Introduction.

Whenever འ is a prefixed letter, the mark འ, in transcribing, is put under the consonant following the འ e.g. འདུ du, འགྲོ་བ་ gro-ba.

Note. For a ready 'finding of words' in the Dictionary, it should be borne in mind, that the articles are arranged in the alphabetical order of the initial consonants and their prefixed and superscribed letters. Thus: ཀ—དཀ—འཀ—ཀ—ཀ—ཀ—; ཁ—མཁ—འཁ— etc. etc.

II. PRONUNCIATION.

With regard to the language, with which I am dealing, it must, on the one hand, be admitted, that distinctions between sounds and, especially, variations in the mode of expressing their values as embodied in a written character, are far more numerous in Tibetan than either in Sanskrit or Hindi, in which two languages there is really little or no opening for mistake or ambiguity in this respect. But on the other hand, Tibetan is scarcely more irregular than French pronunciation, and a few definite rules enjoy universally recognized acceptance.

There is, however, one special difficulty in the case of Tibetan which, at the present stage of that language, renders it practically impossible to set up an equable and authoritative standard of pronunciation, and this is the existence of a great number of independent and well-defined dialects. An attempt to deal partially with this difficulty, — to append, let me suppose, to every word from three to five different pronunciations would involve a waste of time and an extension of space quite disproportionate to the value of the result. And yet, if one has to strike a preference in favour of one particular dialect, it is very hard to determine, which is to be selected. At first sight, it might seem the most natural course to fix upon the speech of the best educated classes in the capital city Lhasa. But when this method was followed, or when at least an endeavour was made to act upon it, by Georgi and then by Schröter, only scant approval was bestowed upon it by European critics, and there were and are several reasonable arguments to be urged against its adoption. Of all the dialects this presents to the European ear and tongue the greatest difficulties, and accommodates itself least readily to the written character. Moreover, in my own case, I have to add that I do not consider myself sufficiently master of it to care to risk its application to each individual word. Besides, modern political circumstances make this dialect, for the present, the least available for general use.

Csoma chose a much more manageable and a much more widely circulating mode of pronunciation, though one which presents problems of its own, when it has to be fitted to the written character: the West-Tibetan dialect. Here again, in representing each separate word, one has, in reality, to make choice between two, three or four pronunciations, of which one agrees best with the written character, another conforms closest to the rules of spelling, a third recommends itself as that most frequent in conversational language. In my own smaller Tibetan dictionary I went no farther than to distinguish between two principal groups, which I termed West-Tibetan and Central-Tibetan; but in a more scientific work like the present I may permit myself to call more minute attention to the niceties and refinements of the language before us. I have, accordingly, published a number of specimens from my note-book, in which I kept a collection of typical words, of which I availed myself as often as I had the opportunity of meeting the representatives of remote districts, and of enquiring concerning their manner of speech at home. Whenever in this collection a word had not been entered on sound native authority, or had not been sufficiently discussed, I preferred to mark it with a note of interrogation, and not to allow any conclusion from analogy, or any theory of pronunciation to interfere with the design of my handy-book and its simple and unprejudiced statement of fact. I may therefore, I hope, claim for this list a high degree of trustworthiness, even among collections of the kind, into which words can sometimes have slipped, as they had been heard once, and perhaps were not heard again.

In order to denote the pronunciation, I follow the scheme of Professor Lepsius. Some objections have been urged against this scheme; yet, amongst all systems of the kind, so far as I have become acquainted with them, I have no hesitation in affirming that of Professor Lepsius to be the best, and it is certainly also that most appropriate for my purpose. A thorough study of the 'Standard Alphabet by R. Lepsius, 2nd edition, London, Williams and Norgate. Berlin, Hertz, 1863' may be recommended to all persons, who interest themselves in phonetic investigations. As I can scarcely take it for granted, that the work mentioned will be already in the hands of every one, who may consult my dictionary, I shall endeavour, as briefly as possible, to indicate its essential plan and principles. Its rules may be stated as follows:

In order to mark sound, Lepsius uses the letters of the ordinary Latin alphabet. Where these are insufficient, he calls in the aid of a few Greek letters. Letters are used with the powers they most generally possess in European languages. (Thus z has its usual force, and does not stand for the peculiar sound ts, which belongs to it in the German language alone.) Sounds which lack exact representation are indicated by diacritical marks, placed above or below the letters which most nearly correspond. Every simple sound is represented by one and only one simple mark. Explosive and fricative consonants (these terms will be explained below) are denoted by different letters.

The following marks or signs are for vowels: the well known sign (˘) for a short, and (˘˘) for a long vowel; the mark of a modified vowel (¨), German ä, ö, ü, is placed by Lepsius, for practical reasons, below, not above the vowel (a, o, u); a dot under the vowel denotes a close vowel-sound (e = a in fate, o in note); a horizontal line under the vowel denotes a more open vowel-sound (e in 'there', o in 'or, cord', which, indeed, supersedes the a mentioned above); the mark (˘) above the vowel indicates a nasal quality, the breath passing, while uttering the sound, to a considerable extent through the nose (the French 'an, in, on, un' = ã, ê, õ, û).

In marking consonants, there is first the distinction to be noted, that they are partly explosives, formed by a rapid process of closing and re-opening the passage of the air at a certain point, partly fricatives and liquids, formed by a partial process of compressing or narrowing the air-passage; and secondly, they are distinguished in regard to the exact spot, where the process of articulation takes place. The lowest articulation takes place in the faucal region, close to the larynx (here, for example, h is formed); next comes the guttural region, at the throat, near the soft palate and uvula (here k is formed); it is marked, when necessary, with a dot above the consonant; then the palatal region, the hard palate, (here the German ch is formed in 'ich'); the mark is a stroke like the acute accent in Greek over the consonant; then the dental region, at the teeth and gums (d, t, s, sh), and finally the labial region, at the lips (b, p, m). There exists a further class of consonants in the Indian languages, and also in modern Tibetan, which are styled cerebrals; they are most of them modified dentals, formed by bending or curling the tongue upwards, and bringing the tip of it into contact with the hard palate in the centre or toward the hinder part of its roof; mark, a dot under the consonant.

Many of these letters, in order to become audible, require in pronouncing them a certain vocalic effort; others, to say the least, allow or suggest such an effort; the mark of these vocalized consonants is a small ring under the letter. When this vocalic effort is made by the medium of the nasal channel alone, the oral passage being simultaneously closed at some one of the points indicated above, we get the nasal consonants as a result. When the stoppage is made at the guttural point, ng is obtained (to be marked ñ); at the dental point, n; at the labial point, m. In order to conform with the two final rules, cited above from Lepsius, the Greek letter χ is used to represent the German ch, when it is guttural and hard, as in the word 'doch'; use is made of the Greek γ, when it is soft or accompanied by a vocalic tone (the Dutch g); χ̇ gives the force of a palatal ch (German 'ich' = iχ̇, 'milch' = milχ̇); ϑ is used to represent the strong English th (as in 'through'); ð renders the softer or vocalized tone (as in 'that'); a hard, sharp and hissing s or ss (as in 'yes', 'press') is marked as s; the soft vocalic s (as in 'his', 'rise') is represented by z; the hard rushing sound sh, German sch, is rendered by š; the sound of the French j by ž. If one attempts to give at the palatal point, where the English y (in 'year'), or the German j (in 'Jahr') is formed, the sound sh, German sch, one obtains the palatal ṧ, or the softened and vocalized ž̇. In the Dictionary š and ž have been substituted for these marks.

Further, in many languages, what are properly combinations of two consonants come to be regarded as simple forms, this happening, either because they are gradual growths upon an original simpler form, or because they have a natural affinity to each other. Thus properly dental sibilants should be distinguished thus: tš, dž; but for the sake of simplicity Lepsius, in his second edition, marks them č and ǰ, or, with their palatal force, č̣ and ǰ̣ (instead of č' and ǰ').

A further example of the combination of consonants is presented in what is known as aspiration, when the letter h is brought into more or less intimate connexion with another consonant. This introduces us to a very important distinction, belonging to the Tibetan language, which it is necessary to explain at some length, in accordance with which explosive consonants, as they have the force of tenues, mediae, or aspiratae, are treated. The tenues are produced by a sudden opening of the air-passage at one of the points above mentioned: throat, teeth, lips, such opening being unaccompanied by any sensible operation of the breath whatsoever. Thus, when quite exactly sounded, k, t, p, are produced. The mediae, g, d, b, are produced by the same process, carried out in a milder and less abrupt way, (the peculiar English pronunciation will come under consideration later). The aspiratae require a decided pressure by the breath (they will be found marked by the spiritus asper above the letter: k̄, t̄, p̄). In northern Germany, in England, and in Scandinavia, modern educated speech recognizes only mediae and aspiratae, for we give an aspirated sound to every k, t and p. The French and the Magyars distinguish consciously the pure tenues from the mediae; on the other hand they ignore the aspiratae. Tibetan pronunciation makes room and requires a mark for all three gradations. Nay more, it augments the class of explosive consonants or mutae by the addition of the dental sibilants in all three ranks or grades of aspiration: Ṡ, Ṣ, Ṥ and Ṧ, Ṩ, Ṫ, or according to the Standard Alphabet: č̣, ǰ̣, ǰ̣ and ts, tš, dz. At a later stage of the language some further modifications were introduced, which we shall subsequently allude to.

Let us now, passing from these general observations, draw attention to a few details of the Phonetic Table, which has been drawn up in deference to a wish that reached me from several quarters.

The first column of the Table, now under review, gives the ancient literal pronunciation, as it was in vogue in the seventh century of our era, and was settled at the time of the invention of the alphabet. Such a pronunciation relies, after all, for its justification on the hypothesis, that the inventors of the alphabet had for their first object to reproduce, as exactly as possible, an artistic reflection of the natural value of sounds as spoken by their contemporaries: that, therefore, a later pronunciation is most in conformity with the original genius of the language, if it gives with the greatest distinctness a special power to each written character. A reference to the Table will amply illustrate the fact, that a pronunciation, adopted on these principles, has actually maintained itself in one or the other provincial dialect, and it is very interesting to notice, that the purest and most striking forms of this survival have their homes in those districts, which are most remote from and least subject to the disintegrating and dissolving influences of the actual centre of Tibetan civilisation, the capital Lhasa. Thus the prefixes and the super-scribed consonants, for the most part, are still sounded at each extremity of the whole territory, within which the language is spoken, both on the Western and the Eastern frontier, alike in Khams, which borders on China, and in Balti, which merges into Kashmere. Moreover, in both localities the same minor irregularities occur, transgressions against an exact rendering of the pronunciation according to the letters, the same frequent transformations of the tenues into the aspiratae, g and d (compare lower down) becoming ɣ or ʒ, b becoming w. Now, about twenty degrees of longitude separate Balti from Khams, and the former, embracing Islam, long since cut itself adrift from spiritual and religious cohesion with Tibet, and there, too, the dialect in other respects has greatly deteriorated, has admitted many foreign elements and has fallen altogether from the position of a literary language. The resemblances and correspondences noted can, therefore, scarcely be accounted for in any other way, than by assuming that an old and strong instinct of speech lived on in oral tradition for more than ten centuries on the outskirts of the Tibetan domain, which in the intermediate provinces has gradually surrendered and submitted to the spirit of change.

Columns 2—6 contain, on most pages, the provincial dialects in their geographical sequence from West to East. The dialects of Ladak, Lahoul and Spiti correspond to what in my smaller Tibetan dictionary I called the dialect of Western Tibet. The last named, Spiti, represents in some respects the transition to the dialects of Eastern Tibet, under which heading Tsang and Ü are to be classed. At the date of the publication of my former dictionary I was unacquainted with the dialect of Kham. Where a space is left vacant in the columns, the provincial pronunciation agrees with the model provided under column 1. Towards the end of the Table, where the anomalies become much more frequent, I have for the sake of clearness repeated the word.

The sign ◁ (which does not occur in this Table) was pronounced = 𑄣, or 𑄤 in the substantive terminations ba and bo (v. Dict. p. 362), viz. = the English w, so that 𑄣 sounded exactly like the French word roi.

The Accent has seldom been marked, because, as in our Teutonic dialects, it generally rests on the root of the word. In the case of compounds, it more frequently falls on the last than on the first of the component parts. But accentuation, altogether, is not of great significance in this language.

With regard to Quantity, vowels are pronounced shorter, even in open syllables, than is the case for instance in England and Germany. This applies particularly to the Central Provinces. Absolutely long vowels occur only as a peculiarity of dialect. They indicate that a consonant has been dropped, in most provinces, s, in Ü, gs, in Tsang, l. A long vowel may also indicate the blending of vowels. But when in Ü and Tsang the d, (as in čé'-pa) and when in Lahoul the g (as in fo', ju'-rón) is partially dropped, the vowel likewise maintains a short abrupt pronunciation. Moreover, the region, to which I have just referred, is that in which the spoken language has been greatly affected by a foreign linguistic principle. A system of Tones has been introduced under manifestly Chinese auspices. I am told by European students of reputation, who have made the Tonic languages of Eastern Asia their special department, that only the first principles of what are known as the high and low Tones, have made their way into Tibetan. Here, as in the languages of Farther India, generally, which possess an alphabetic system of writing, the Tone is determined by the initial consonant of the word. This I have generally indicated in column 7, which column applies only to the Spiti, Tsang and Ü dialects. The system of Tones, as in Siam and elsewhere, has become of paramount importance in determining distinctions between words. An inhabitant of Lhasa, for example, finds the distinction between ◁ and 𑄣, or between 𑄤 and 𑄥, not in the consonant, but in the Tone, pronouncing ◁ and 𑄤 with a high note (as my Tibetan authorities were wont to describe it 'with a woman's voice', shrill and rapidly), 𑄣 and 𑄥, on the contrary with a low note, and, as it appeared to me, more breathed and floating. This latter distinction is still more apparent with regard to those low-toned aspirates, that in the course of time were introduced in Central Tibet instead of the mediae, in contraposition to which now the original aspirates are used as high-toned; so more particularly in the dialect of Spiti. The low-toned aspirate I have indicated by h, the high-toned by the mark of the spiritus asper '.

Those letters of the alphabet, which as simple initial consonants have a deep tone, become with a superscribed letter or with a prefix high-toned, so also ࠨ, when subscribed. The tenues remain, it would appear, unaffected by the Tone. With reference to the modifying effect of a final n, d, and ñ, in different provinces, the Table may be consulted. The characterisation of the rushing sounds as 'palatals' is no doubt correct and agrees with the generally prevailing pronunciation; but the learner need not consider it as being of much importance.

The two letters, ࠨ and ࠩ, introduce us to a very interesting linguistic phenomenon.

We meet here with the idea of the vowel absolute, the pure vocalic note, freed altogether from any presence of a consonant. This vowel-tone is rendered by the letter of the alphabet ࠨ, in contradistinction to ࠩ, which represents the Semitic h, the spiritus lenis of the Greeks, the audible re-opening of the air passage of the larynx. The difference may be observed, for example, in the manner of uttering the words, 'the lily, an endogen' and in the pronunciation of 'Lilian' (a name), in Tibetan ࠨའི་འི་ཨན་ and ࠨའི་འི་འན་. Thus, whenever in the middle of a word one vowel succeeds another (hence also in all diphthongs), ࠨ is used. Again, in Tibetan, as in every form of human speech, it cannot but be the commonest of occurrences for a vowel to follow a consonant, and the strict rule might seem to require the vocalic tone to be always indicated, which, according to Csoma, was originally done. However, as the Tibetan language, adopting the principle from Sanskrit, deems the sound of a to be naturally inherent in every consonant, while the other four vowels, as mere subspecies of the vowel absolute, are indicated by little hooks above or below the letter, and as the end of a syllable is always marked by a dot (called tseg), the function of ࠨ in this capacity was soon seen to be quite superfluous. Its use is necessary only to obviate ambiguities, when for instance one of the five letters, used as prefixes, precedes a consonant with a; e.g. the word ࠨམ་, would be read 'mad'; whereas ࠨམ་འ་, written thus, implies that the vowel does not precede but follow the consonant d, and consequently the m is prefix, and the word to be read 'mda'. If the vowel is not a, the sign of such vowel suffices, e.g. ࠨམ་ ࠨམ་འ་ ࠨམ་འ་, standing now for ࠨམ་འ་འ་. Some practical difficulty attends the pronunciation of the pure vowel as an initial letter. In order that the effect of the consonant ࠩ may not be produced, it is necessary, after opening the larynx, to allow the tone gently to set in and then to let it gradually gain fulness and force. I shall indicate this process by the mark ࠨ. The sound would be still more accurately represented than it is in the Table, thus: ࠨའ་འ་འ་-འ་, ࠨའ་འ་འ་-འ་ etc. Improper are the expedients of some of the dialects, the sound being hardened to γ in Khams, to ࠩ in Western Tibet; also Csoma's device of indicating it by an h is inadequate. This is a case in which the true pronunciation has been preserved in the Central Provinces, perhaps, because it almost necessarily implies the effort connected with the low Tone, above referred to, so that, when the invading system of Tones had here established its authority, it acted as a conservative element.

Finally, this vocalic tone can be used in connexion with certain consonants. It is unnecessary to indicate it in Tibetan, when it accompanies liquidæ (m, n, ñ, r, l) and sibilants; but with the mutæ it must be marked, where the effect is that, with which we are familiar in the case of the English mediae, b, d, g, j, for instance in 'be, do, go, jew'. In Tibetan the vocalic effect accompanies aspirates too, and is marked by ࠨ, placed as a prefix, which I transcribe thus ࠨ, e.g. ࠨའ་ ࠨའ་ = the English do. The pause on the tone is of course in the case of mutae a very short one. Here again, though only in the case of the mediae, we find this peculiarity preserved in its purity in Central Tibet. It is not difficult to understand, how, if one is careless about closing the nasal passage, a nasal articulation of this prefix can easily grow common. This has happened throughout Khams, and in the rest of Tibet at least in compound words; at Lhasa it is considered inelegant, as is also the sounding of any prefix. On the other hand, the dialect of Central Tibet neglects the distinction between མ and ར and pronounces the former only as a vocalic initial. In words from the Sanscrit the ར is used in some respect as a 'mora', to denote a long syllable, e. g. རྱི for མྱི; hence the opinion of Lamas of Lhasa, that it expresses prosodical length, when used as above in མྱར.

མྱ mya, is not found in use in any of the dialects. The sole confirmation of its literal pronunciation depends upon the word myai-ba which, perhaps a thousand years ago, found its way into the Bu-nan language (Tibar-skad, Cunningh.) and which the people of Lahoul, when speaking Tibetan, pronounce nyai-wa. The process of transition to the cerebral t-sounds in the words krad-pa etc. is in many places not yet completed, so that the sound of r is still more or less clearly distinguishable. The Prefixes have always constituted the most perplexing phenomena in the Tibetan language, At the time of the invention of the alphabet they must have represented a sort of anticipatory sound in close connexion with the initial consonant of the word. Certain seeming impossibilities of pronunciation, when one has, for instance, to deal with a prefix together with a threefold initial consonant (བརྒྱ, བརྒྱ) become less formidable, and not more embarrassing than those which meet us, for example, in the Polish language, when we ascertain that in Balti and Khams the three explosive prefixes are pronounced as fricatives, in which case v must be written for w. Thus གཅིག་ γèi-wa, བཀྲ་ wkra, བརྒྱགས་ wsgrags call for no greater exertions, than do the Polish chciwy, wkrótce, wskroś. Our strongest ground for assuming this fricative pronunciation to be that of antiquity is, I think, that, had it been explosive, words like གཡུ་, གཡོན་ would have coincided with གུ་, གོན་. Yet it must be acknowledged that a pronunciation bèu, bka etc. exists, side by side with wèu, wka etc. — མ, as a liquid, offers no difficulty. — ར, as a prefix, is no consonant.

A doubt must still cling to རྱ, and I do not venture to determine its ancient pronunciation. It is by a strange anomaly that, in most dialects, when prefixed to ར, both it and the initial consonant die away into a spiritus lenis; and almost still more singular it is, that where it still asserts an independent force, in Khams and in Balti, it is sounded like གྱ with the power of γ. The investigations of Lepsius go indeed to prove, that རྱ and གྱ are complements to each other; but how came, at the beginning, two letters to be chosen as signs for one and the same sound? Most probably the original sound was ð, which then very soon passed into γ. The variations between r and s in Ladak afford no sure hold for drawing inferences.

The purpose, for which the Phonetic Table was drawn up, will have been attained, if I succeed in convincing my readers, 1. that for scientific objects the pronunciation, as it is given in Column 1, is the most suitable, and that with a good conscience it can be recommended in the place of that introduced by Csoma; 2. that its system is regular enough to render it unnecessary to give the pronunciation of every individual word throughout the work; 3. that I present in this Table, in regard to the various dialects, as much in the way of results as, down to the present, it has been possible for European students to acquire and to put into shape for the service of a European public.

ཀྱི་ kyi, affix I. to sbst.-roots, ending in d, b, s: sign of the genitive case.

— II. to verbal roots, after the same final letters, and then without an essential difference from kyis, to which we add in this place also examples of the other terminations gi(s), gyi(s), yi(s), i (the s by itself is not used after verbal roots): a. in the sense of a gerund, meaning by (doing something), because, dgós-kyis ḡōñ-ñio we come because it is necessary . . . , or more freq. though, dgai though she is glad . . . Dzl., in which case it may often be rendered in English by but: she is glad, but . . . ; zas bzāñ-po mi ḡód-kyis ta-māl-pa zos he did not care for dainties, but ate vulgar food Dzl.; or it has to be omitted: bdēn-pa yin-gyis rdzān-pa ma yin it is true, no fiction Dzl.

— b. as an adjective, forming, like kyin (q. v.), with ḡug or yod a periphrastical present tense e. g. groi ḡug he is walking, ḡoi-gi yod he is coming. — c. at the end of a sentence in the sense of a finite verb and more particularly in the 1. pers. fut.: gyod mi rmoi I shall not make you suffer for it Dzl., ñas grogs byā-yis I shall help Glr., bžag-gi, and: bžag-gis I shall put Glr. This use of kyi(s) is said to be quite common at the present time in C., whereas in W. not only the whole gerundial use, but even the distinction of kyi, gyi, gi in the genitive case of a sbst. has disappeared from colloquial language, instead of which the last consonant is repeated and the vowel

i added: sñi-ni of the wood, yid-dè of the mind, bül-li of the wool.

Note 1. kyi(s) when combined with adjective roots, includes the verb to be, e. g. mün-gi = mün-po yin-gyi. — 2. In colloquial language and later literature the genitive of the verbal root often takes the place of the genit. infinitivi, which seldom occurs in the old classical style, e. g. nam tsoi bär-du lifelong. — 3. ji nüs kyi(s), ji tñb-kyi(s) or vulg. tñb-bi, as much as (I, you etc.) can (could etc.) — 4. kyi(s), when denoting an antithesis, is often followed by a pleonastical ñon-kyan.

(b)klog, imp. klog, lhoys, to read, B., C., yül-kyis klóg-pa* to read without uttering a sound; klog-pa or klog sbst. reading, klog bzán-po šés-pa Mil. to be a good reader; klóg-gi slób-dpon a reading-teacher. — klóg-gra a reading-school. — klóg-tabs, klóg-tsul art, way of reading.

ལྷོ་ kloñ acc. to Lex. = Ssk. urmi, wave; in the living language it is used for middle; in ancient literature for expanse, esp. nám-mkai of the heavens, rgyá-mtsoi of the sea; ran-byüñ kloñ yañs brjod-méd the unspeakably vast uncreated space; hence: the space of heaven, the heavens, klón-du ldiñ-ba to soar, to hover in the sky. This vagueness of meaning makes the word suited to the idle fancies of mysticism, as in: klón-du gyür-ba, which seems to denote a soaring into mystic perfection. — dba-klón Sch.: wave; Tibetans of today, and Schr.: the midst of the waves. — kloñ-brdól Glr. was explained by Iamas: emerging from amidst the waves. (The significations 'depth, abyss, plenty, body' added by Sch. seem to be erroneous). Cf. dkyel.

ལྷོན་པ་ klón-pa, also klán-pa, to mend, patch v. also lhán-pa.

ལྷ་ཡ་ kša-ya Ssk. prop. phthisis pulmonalis; but acc. to Tib. pathology kša-ya nág-po denotes a bilious disease, prob. icterus niger, black jaundice.

དཀོན་མཚོག་ dkon-mčog (W.: kon-čög*, kon-čög, C.: kön-čö') 1. the most precious thing. Buddhism has always sought the highest good not in anything material, but in the moral sphere, looking with indifference, and indeed with contempt, on everything merely relating to matter. It is not, however, moral perfection or the happiness attained thereby, which is understood by the 'most precious thing', but the mediator or mediators who procure that happiness for mankind, viz. Buddha, (the originator of the doctrine), the doctrinal scriptures and the corporate body of priests, འབྲས་ལྗན་ dkon-mčog ysum. Now, although this triad cannot by any means be placed on a level with the Christian doctrine of a triune God, yet it will be easily understood, how the innate desire of man to adore and worship something supernatural, together with the hierarchical tendency of the teaching class, have afterwards contributed to convert the acknowledgment of human activity for the benefit of others (for such it was undoubtedly on the part of the founder himself and his earlier followers) into a devout, and by degrees idolatrous adoration of these three agents, especially as Buddha's religious doctrine did not at all satisfy the deeper wants of the human mind, and as its author himself did not know anything of a God standing apart and above this world. For whatever in Buddhism is found of beings to whom divine attributes are assigned, has either been transferred from the Indian and other mythologies, and had accordingly been current among the people before the introduction of Buddhism, or is a product of philosophical speculation, that has remained more or less foreign to the people at large. — 2. As then the original and etymological signification of the word is no longer current, and as to every Tibetan 'dkon-mčog' suggests the idea of some supernatural power, the existence of which he feels in his heart, and the nature and properties of which he attributes more or less to the three agents mentioned above, we are fully entitled to assign to the word dkon-mčog also the signification of God, though the sublime conception which the Bible connects with this word, viz. that of a personal, absolute, omnipotent being, will only with the spread of the Christian religion be gradually introduced and established.

Note 1. rai-grub-dkon-mčog with Schr. is evidently the appellation of the Christian God adopted by the Rom. Cath. missionaries of those times. — 2. In the older writings dkon-mčog occurs (as far as I know) never without ysum, and combinations such as dkon-mčog-la mčod-pa byed-pa or ʼsol-ba debs-pa, as well as blu-ma dkon-mčog, are to be found only in writings of a comparatively recent date. — 3. Instead of the phrase of asseveration: dkon-mčog šes, God knows! the mere words dkon-mčog ʼsum are frequently used in the same sense.

དཀོན་པ་ dkón-pa C., B., -mo W. rare, scarce, and therefore dear, precious, valuable (in an objective sense, cf. ʼyès-pa) ʼjig-rtén-na dkón-no is exceedingly rare in the world Dzl., ʼjig-rtén-na dkón-par bzáñ-no it is of a beauty rarely to be met with in the world Dzl.; k̄yod dra m̄tón-na dkón-rgyu med to see a person like you, is nothing particular Mil.; l̄e bdé-mo-la l̄há čos dkon with a prattler religion is scarce, there is generally not much religion about him Mil. — dkon-nór riches, valuables Mil.

དཀོར་ dkór 1. wealth, riches. — 2. m̄til-dkor, yañ-dkor, sa-dkor are expressions current in C. which I could not get sufficiently explained. — dkor-nór = nor. — dkor-pa Cs., dkor-mi Sch. treasurer. — dkor-mdzod frq., treasury. — dkor-rdzogs (pronounce kor-zog(s)) n. of a monastery in southern Ladak, situated 16 000 feet high.

དཀྱར་ dkyar Z., Ld., a sort of snow-shoes. (Sch.: 'stocking-boots?')

དཀྱིལ་ dkyil the middle, dkyil-du, -na in the middle, c. genit. in the midst of, amidst; dkyil-nas from the middle, from amidst; relative to time: yar-ri* *kyil-la W., in the middle of summer. dkyil-ma the middle one, e. g. room, = dwelling-room Ld.

Comp. dkyil-dkrún v. skjil-dkrún. — dkyil-kor 1. circle, circumference, frq. 2. figure, e. g. dkyil-kor gru-bži-pa quadrangle, square; a certain mystical figure; diagram, model. 3. a circle of objects, k̄or-gyi dkyil-kor the circle of the attendants. 4. the area of a circle, disk, e. g. of the sun; žál-gyi dkyil-kor bstan = he showed his full countenance Pth. 5. sphere, rlün-gi dkyil-kor the atmosphere, m̄ñ-dkyil-kor the sphere of fire, and similarly of the other elements, l̄hai dkyil-kor may perh. likewise be translated by: the sphere of the power of a certain god. In mysticism and magic, however, several other more or less arbitrary significations are assigned to the word, e. g. it is said to be used for l̄us-kyi dkyil-kor the whole extent or bulk of the body, = the body, dkyil-kor-gyi ʼnás-su čái-ba to wear on one's body (e. g. an amulet); or instead of čós-kyi dkyil-kor m̄tón-ba to behold the whole extent of religious doctrine (?).

Note. In Lex. dkyil is said to be = मण्ड; perh. merely because dkyil-kor is used for मण्डल? But mán-dal-gyi dkyil-kor is the Buddhistic map of the world, representing mount Sumeru with the surrounding continents etc.

དཀྱུ་བ་ dkyü-ba 1 to run a race Cs. — 2. to wring out, to filter Sch. — 3. to caper about Ld. — dkyü-byai rtu race-horse Cs., dkyü-sa race-course Cs.

དཀྱུག་པ་ dkyüg-pa to lose colour by washing Ld., perh. more correctly skyüg-pa.

དཀྱུས་ dkyus 1. length, dkyüs-su in length, dkyüs-riñ long C., spyän-dkyüs length from one corner of the eye to the other (e. g. in an image) C. (Sch.: bold, insolent?) — 2. untruth, falsehood, lie. Tar. 108. 7. dkyüs-nyid seems to be used so, whilst 188, 5 is totally obscure.

དཀྱུས་མ་ dkyüs-ma common, every-day, e. g. na-bza every-day clothes, dbu-žu work-day hat; hence mi dkyüs-ma common people (without office or authority) C.

དཀྱིལ་ dkyel seems to be acc. to Cs. a synonym of kloñ. I only met with the word dkyil-po če in a medical work; Sch. explains it by universe, and a native Lex. by kai yáñs-pa the wide house, which possibly may signify the same.

དཀྱི་བ་ dkri-ba pf. dkris, vb. a. (cf. kri-ba) to wind, to wind up, grü-gu a clew or ball of thread, l̄us-la gos (or gós- kyis) dkr., to wrap a garment round the body; rtsá-bar kór-lo dkris-pai yèu Med. was explained to me: a magic spell in circular writing, wrapped round the lower end of a clyster-pipe, fig.: sér-snas kin-nas dkris quite ensnared in avarice; kun-dkris 'all-ensnaring' = sin. — dkri-ma (Glr. 47. where the text has dríma) means very likely necker-chief, which col. is called kog-ti* or ká-ti C. 'og-šri, ká-šri, *kyá-šri W. — In the sense of ḥrid-pa to conduct (Sch.) it never came to my notice.

དཀྱིགས་པ་ dkrigs-pa 1. darkened, obscured, dim, = krigs-pa. — also dkrigs-ḥrág, term for a very large number, Cs.: a 100 000 billion, acc. to Zam. = ytáms-pa, which Cs. renders, a 1000 billion. The one may be, after all, as correct as the other, for all these large numbers are, of course, not meant to be used in serious calculations, but are mere imitations of fantastic Indian extravagancies.

དཀྱུགས་པ་ dkrúg-pa pf. dkrugs (W. šrug-čé) to stir, stir up, agitate (as the storm does the sea); to trouble, disturb, confound (as enemies of religion confound the doctrine, or as passions disturb the mind); dkrugs-šii 1. stirring-stick, twirling-stick. 2. disturber, enemy e.g. of the doctrine Glr. — dkrugs Schr.: turning-lathe (?) — dkrugs-ma Schr.: quarrel. — Dzl. 277. dkrugs byéd - pa dubious; a safer reading is dkü-lto byéd-pa.

After quotations bka or bkao (= skad & skad-do) means: thus says (the holy book or teacher). bka as first part of a compound is frequently used to give the word adjoined the character of respectfulness, and is therefore not to be translated separately.

Prot.* This word has been adopted on account of its etymological signification, although it differs in its form and use from the σταυρός of the N. T., which is unknown in Tibet and India. Additional explanation will be at any rate required on the part of missionaries; but much more so in the case of the kro-čé (Ital. croce) of the Rom. Cath. missionaries of the last century. In favour of the word ysal-šín, pointed stake for empaling a delinquent, speaks the circumstance, that this is also the original and classical signification of σταυρός, and that Buddhists from their own legends are well acquainted with the idea of martyrdom inflicted in this manner. Still ysal-šín leads to a conception of the death of Christ historically untrue and revolting to our feelings and is therefore better not employed; moreover it is to be assumed that in the times of the Evangelists σταυ- ρός was the term generally used for cross, whilst in the case of ysal-šín no Tibetan thinks of anything else but empaling.

མཁམ་ skam v. skám-pa and -po.

མཁམ་པ་ skam-pa I. vb. 1. = rkám-pa to long for. — 2. = ském-pa (bskam-pa). — II. sbst. 1. = rkám-pa longing, 2. a pair of tongs; skam-čün small tongs, pincers; also several other instruments of a similar shape. — III. adj., com. skám-po dry, skam-rlón 1. dry and wet. — 2. dryness in a relative sense, skam-šè Ld. very lean (like a mummy), skám-sa the dry land, the shore, skam id., skám-sar pýin-pa, skam-la sléb-pa to get ashore, skam-lam journey by land Wts.; skam-san Ld. meat perfectly dried.

མཁར་ skar; this and the compounds skar-ka and skar-tsad v. under ska-ba; skar-kün etc. under skar-ma.

མཁར་བ་ skar-ba Cs.: 'a penning of cattle, assortment, separation, to pen, to fold, to separate'. But as these significations seem to belong to the spelling bkar-ba and dgar-ba, it will be safer to confine the verb skar-ba, pf. bskar, imp. skor, to the following, 1. to hang up, skar-tañ-čè, čár-la skár-čè* id. Ld. (e. g. clothes). — 2. to weigh, and skar weight, garu* niul gui skar a little box weighing 9 rupees (about 4 ounces); skár-ka or *-ka weight; skar-tsad measure, scale. W., C. — 3. skar-tág tán-čè to inquire rigorously; to restrict; to bind down, to flog; skar-lčág a rigorous inquiring, a flogging W., also C.

མཁར་མ་ skár-ma Ssk. མཁར་མ་ 1. star, fixed star, planets and stars; sometimes it is used generally: skar-čén a very large, uncommonly bright star, esp. Venus when appearing as evening- or morning-star; nyin-moi skár-ma a star seen in the daytime (a thing of very rare occurrence). — 2. constellation, asterism; btsas-skár constellation of nativity Med; gyañ-skár propitious constellation (such are the nakṣatras no. ८ to १२, v. rgyu-skár).

Comp, skár-kün (the same word as dkar-kün, but of a different etymology) wind-dow. — skar-kóns Cs.: 'the angular distance between two stars or planets' (?) — skar-liá a weight ('5 points' on the steelyard for gold) = 1 $\frac{1}{20}$ or $\frac{1}{20}$ ounce; as money = $\frac{1}{3}$ rupee. — skar-čú 'star-water'; bathing under the constellation skár-ma rib-čí (prob. rewati, the 28th nakṣatra, is meant) in October is considered beneficial for every kind of complaint, because Sans-rgyás smán-pai rgyál-po (quasi 'Buddha Aesculapius', to whom the origin of the medical science is ascribed by Tibetan Buddhists), bathed in that season, and therefore Tibetans, though not particularly fond of washing and bathing in general, are said to follow this example pretty frequently. — skar-mdá (Cs.: 'ignis fatuus?') a shooting star, ltuñ or sa-la dril is coming down, jañs Mil. id. — skar-dpyád, -rtsis astrology. — skar-prán a small star. — skar-tsoğs the starry host. — skar-dzin 'star-catching', making one's self sure of a propitious constellation, e. g. for an intended journey, by a sham departure, conveying luggage or goods to the next village etc., but then interrupting and postponing it to a more convenient time.

སྐལ་བ་ skál-ba Ssk. भग, resp. sku-skál 1. portion, share; bgo-skál allotted portion; zas-skál portion of food, ration; ran-skál personal share; nor-skál or syal-nór Glr. hereditary portion, inheritance; skál-ba ma čád-par without being shortened of his portion Mil.; ma mtón-ba skál-ba ma mčis-pa dra it does not seem to fall to my lot to see my mother. — skal-čád dried up, withered Sch. (?) — 2. in a special sense: the portion of good or bad fortune that falls to a man's lot, as a consequence of his former actions, lot, fate, destiny, a. relatively: skál-ba bzán-po, nán-pa good, bad fortune; tse dii grogs-s'ál the matrimonial share of the present life, the connubial fate for which a person is predestinated Glr. (The Buddhist priests pretend to be able to calculate the skál-ba of any one after his death) b. in a positive and good sense, denoting either prosperity and blessing as a consequence of good actions, or those actions themselves as being pious and meritorious, so that skal-ldán means happy, blessed as well as pious, devout, and skal-méd unhappy, irreligious, impious. skal-ldán are all those who have devoted themselves to virtue and treasured up more or less good works, and who may expect to be promoted in proportion. The term worthy, therefore, though not quite correct as to the word itself, is still very appropriate as it regards the subject; even venerable, holy may be applied occasionally, cf. भगवत् and भगवान्. Also some single blessing or spiritual gift may be meant by skál-ba and so the Ommanipadmehūm is called the čos-skál, 'the religious treasure', of Tibet Glr.

སྐལ་ལྷན་ skás-ka B., C., skás-ká, skás-pa C., skrás-ka (pronounced té-ka* C., šrás-ka, šré-ka W.), even skas, skad ladder, generally consisting of the notched trunk of a tree; rkyán-skad C. 'single ladder', the same, compared with two or three of them joined together, to make a sort of staircase with broader steps; do-tá* C., do-šrás, do-šré W. a flight of stone-steps; gya-šrás, gya-šré W., *gya-ké C. (Schr.) a regular staircase as in European houses; gru-skás Glr. prob.: flight of steps at the corner of a building; gro-skad Glr. fol. 7 appeared to be unknown to those that were consulted; skas-kyi rim-pa Cs. steps; šra-ldán, šral-dán W. spokes of a ladder; skas gram Cs. the two side-pieces of a staircase or ladder; skas dzug-pa to apply a ladder Schr., Cs.

སྐལ་ sku, Ssk. काय, sometimes मूर्त्ति 1. also sku-lus, sku-yzugs, resp. for lus: body; by being prefixed to the names of parts of the body and even of everything that has reference to the bodily existence of a person, it imparts to them the character of respectful terms: sku-stod, -smad the upper, lower, part of the body; sku-ša flesh; sku-mtsál (for sku-krag) blood Cs.; sku-mdóg colour of the skin, sku-ná age; sku-tse lifetime, life; sku-káms state of health; sku-skál portion, share, sku-čás goods, stores Mil., sku-bsód virtue, happiness Tar.; sku-skyés a present (given to or received from a respected personage); sku-bág image, statue Glr.; sku-mdun-pa (C.: kun-dum-pa) or -drui-pa attendant of a man of rank; ku-jar-wa ('adherent', v. byar-ba) id. C.; sku-nye Sch. relation, kinsman; sku-yšegs-pa dying, death (of a king etc.) Glr.; sku-bstod praise Sch.; sku-šogs (acc. to Cs. instead of sku yšogs 'the side' = your presence) a title of honour, when we should say: your or his honour, your or his worship, in W. only for clerical dignitaries, in C. also for other persons of rank. Even buildings (monasteries etc.) are honoured by these respectful expressions: sku-dkar ysol-ba to 'administer' whitewash. — 2. in a special sense: the person of Buddha, whom philosophers represent in three forms of existence called sku-ysum त्रिकाय, viz.: čos-kyi sku, धर्मकाय, loñs-spyód-kyi sku संभोगकाय and sprúl-pai sku निर्माणकाय. These three 'persons', however, have as little as dkon-mčog-ysum any thing in common with the Christian Trinity, nor even with the Indian Trimūrti, for the first state, the 'body of law', the absolute body, is Buddha in the Nirvāna, the so-called first world of abstract existence i. e. non-existence, which is the ultimate aim and end of every existence and the ideal aspired to by every believing Buddhist; the second state, the 'body of happiness or glory' is Buddha in the perfection of a conscious and active life of bliss in the second world (heaven or Elysium), which state however is inferior to the first; the third, the 'body of transformation and incarnation', is Buddha in the third or visible world, as man on earth. Notwithstanding the altogether abstract character of čös-sku, as a philosophical conception, Buddhist fancy is pleased to represent it as a visible image of Buddha, shining in the colours of the rainbow, or at least as a brilliant apparition of light, though impalpable and unapproachable; and this is not only a notion of the vulgar, but is acknowledged also in literature. More recent speculators have even added a no-bo-nyid-kyr sku superior to the three, viz. that which is eternal in the essence of a Buddha, even čös-sku, the absolute body, being described by these philosophers as transient. The unintelligible passage in Cs.'s dictionary, p. 305 b. might be corrected thus: 'adding to the former three as a fourth' etc. — To this signification belong the compounds sku-rim, resp. for rim-gro reverence, respect, particularly in the special sense of a solemn sacrificial ceremony, performed on public and private occasions, e. g. in cases of disease; sku-rim byéd-pa to perform such a ceremony. — sku-rtén, sku-tsub, sku-zyügs, sku-dvä (*W. *kun-dä) image of Buddha etc. — 3. image, statue, of Buddha or other holy persons, γsér-sku a gold image, rdó-sku a stone image, čjim-sku an image of clay, bris-sku a painted image, bür-sku a basso-relievo, rkós-sku an engraved, blügs- or ldugs-sku a molten, tügs-sku a woven image Cs. — sku-bim 'mausoleum' or acc. to another etymology 'the 100 000 images', n. of the famous monastery Kumbum east of the Kokonor (v. Travels of Huc and Gabet). — sku γsuñ tugs 1. (cf. sku no. 1) resp. f. lus riag yid the three spheres of a man's doings or sufferings, works, words and thoughts. — 2. the rtén γsum, the three representations of Buddha: the image of his person, the books containing his doctrine, the pyramid (mčöd-rtén) as the symbol of his grace. — sku-lia-rgyäl-po five deities of degenerated Buddhism Schl. 157.

The latter is common in books as an abbreviation like our 'etc.', to save the repeated writing at full length of the same sentence, as refrains etc.

In accordance to this explanation we find in Mil. after an entreaty: blá-ma kyed mkyen-mkyen. It is gen. added without any connecting word, like our pray, or please, but sometimes it is construed with the inf.: mdzad-pa(r) mkyen-mkyén, please to do.

So the Tibetans always designate their own country, in comparison with India, the holy land of Buddhism, as being mta-kób ká-ba-čan. II. sbst. 1. the turning round or about etc.; more particularly 2. the orb or round of transmigration within the six classes of physical beings. Though the Buddhist has not a more ardent wish, than to be finally released from the repeated wanderings of the soul, yet he believes so firmly in these migrations, that he will rather follow the doctrines of his philosophers, and doubt the reality of the perception of his senses, than think it possible, that the whole theory of the kor-ba with all its consequences should be nothing but a product of human imagination. — kor-bar kor-ba to turn round, to wander about in the orb of transmigration; kor-bai btsón-ra, dam, mtso the dungeon, the swamp, the sea of the kor-ba; kor-ba-las das-pa to escape from the kor-ba, = to enter into the Nirwana kor-das 1. abbreviation of the foregoing. 2. for kor-ba dai das-pa the stay in the kor-ba and the escape from it; kor das ynyis-su nas ma mton I have not seen that there is a difference between these two Mil.

འབྲིང་འོ་ ཀོར་ལོ་ (Ssk. चक्र, मण्डल) 1. circle, tsogs-kyi kor-lo offerings arranged in a circle, v. tsogs: kor-lo bri-ba to describe a circle Tar. More frq.: 2. a circular body, a disk, roll, wheel, any modification of the cylinder, bèu-ysum-kor-lo the column on the mčod-rtén consisting apparently of thirteen circular disks; kor-lo brtsib-brgyád the wheel with eight spokes, a frq. attribute of deities; rdza-mkán-gyi kor-lo potter's wheel; čós-kyi kor-lo praying-cylinder, cf. below; also a complication of wheels, wheel-work, engine, prül-gyi kor(-lo) 'magic wheel', a phantastic attribute of gods, but also any real machine of a more ingenious construction, e.g. sugar-press Stg., electrical machine etc.; ču-tsod-kor-lo a clock; šin-rtá-kor-lo waggon, carriage, also cart-wheel. — Figuratively: bdé-ba dai sdug-bsnád-gyi kor-lo, vicissitude of fortune; dús-kyi kor-lo (कालचक्र) acc. to Cs.'s Chronological Table (Cs.'s Gram. p. 181) a later philosophical system, contained esp. in the rtsa-rgyüd, Mūlatantra, in which the Adibudha doctrine, prophecies, chronology etc. are propounded. It was introduced into Tibet about 1000 p. Chr.; cf. also Schl. 45. — kor-lo sgyúr-ba, or skór-ba, with čós-kyi, to turn the wheel of doctrine, = to preach, to teach religion, (vulgo understood only of the turning of the praying-cylinder); čó-kyi kor-lo lén-mor bé-pa C. to devote one's self to the preaching of religion. On the other hand: kor-lo sgyúr-bai rgyál-po (चक्रवर्तिन) Will.: 'a ruler, the wheels of whose chariot roll everywhere without obstruction, emperor, sovereign of the world, the ruler of a čakra, or country extending from sea to sea'. In this Indian explanation two different etymologies are given, the former of which is undoubtedly the original one. Buddhism and the Tibetan language have added a third signification, 'praying-wheel'; modern scholars a fourth, that of the 'orb' or round of transmigration or metempsychosis: hence the confusion attaching to the import of this word.

འབྲིང་འོག་ kor-lóg is said to be used in col. language instead of ka-lo 3. W.

གང་ gan I. interr. pron. 1. who? which? B., C., W.; when used adjectively, it generally follows its sbst. (so at least in good language), and if preceding it, it stands in the genit. case: pyogs gan which region or part of the world? gân-gi dus which time? in the latter case it may also mean whose: gân-gi lam whose way? pyi nan rnyis čós lugs gan bzan which of the two doctrines, the Brahmanic or the Buddhist, is the right one? pyogs gân-nas on, no mi šés-pas not knowing from what part of the country she comes Gl.; ma ni gan yin bu ni gan yin bye-brág pyes decide which is the mother and which the child Dzl.; gan žé-na lit. 'if one asks which?' corresponds sometimes to the English 'namely, to wit, viz.:'; gân-na where? gan-la whither? gân-nas, gân-las whence? gân-du where? whither? gân-na-bu = gan-na-ba v. above; gân-pa, yul gân-pa, col. gan-yul-pa, from what country? — 2. C. for èi what? ghan zér-ra(n) what shall I say? kyö-kyi min-la ghan zér-ghyi yö-dham what is your name? ghan-la you what are you coming for? what do you want? — 2. rel., or rather correl. pron., who, which, he who, she who, whoever, whichever, whatever, ὅστις: gan pyir šón-ba de ni she who follows Dzl.; gan gos dód-pa-la gos byuñ whoever wanted clothes, to him they were given Dzl.; rig-pa gan rnó-ba čig-la stér-ro I give it to him who is the sharpest as to sagacity Gl.; kyód-kyi dpá-ba gan yin-pa-la kó-bo mgu the bravery which you have shown pleases me Tar. 21, 13; rgyál-bu gân-du tse šjós-pai ynás-su sôn-no they went to the place where the prince had changed life Dzl.; gân-gi lam šón-du grub-pa des . . . he whose way (of sanctification) will be completed first, shall . . . Stg. Often tams-čád or a plural-sign accompanies the partic.: gan mi šés-pa-dag they who do not understand Dzl. Rarely in B., but frq. in the col. language of W., the pa after the verb is supplied by a gerundial particle, such as na, nas: gan tán-na kyad med which you intend to give is all the same. Sometimes, however, particularly in more modern literature, no pa is added to the verb at all, esp. when gan is joined with yin, yod, or dug, so that such sentences in their form are very similar to the relative sentences of occidental languages; but that this omission of pa, although sanctioned by long continued use, is after all an incorrect breviloquence, and that pa must always be understood, appears from the frq. occurrence of the plural sign immediately after yod etc.: de rnyis-kyi srid gan yód-rnams the claims to government which both of these maintained Gl.; gân-tse — dèi-tse when — then; gan žig whoever, if any body etc. frq.; vulgo in W. often pleon. = any or some, gan žig tims-si jil-lu on account of some law-suit, instead of tims žig-gi pyir; gan la-là žig is of a similar meaning, but less frq. The import of the word is still more generalized by yan being added to gan or to the verb: dñós-po gan mton yan Mil. whatever he sets his eyes upon; gan ltár-na yan, gan yin kyan whatsoever it may be, however that may be, be that as it may, at all events, esp. C.; gan-yan-rün-ba, gan-rün, gan-èi-yan-rün whatsoever he may be, whatsoever it may be, quicumque; rnas gan-yan-rün-ba-nu wherever; gân-nas gân-du skyes kyan out of which class of beings and into whichsoever I shall be re-born Dzl. — 3. indefinite pron., used absolutely, each, every, any, all, when followed by a negation = not any, none, no: žo dar ču sogs gan yan ka, curdled milk, buttermilk, water, every thing tastes bitter Med.; sais-ryyás gân-gis kyan ma bèčgs-pa not yet trodden by any Buddha Gl.; jan gan fogs gyis be as useful as ever possible Mil.; gân-dag all Gl. and elsewhere; dé-dag mi byuñ gan yan med these are to be found everywhere; gân-la gan-dul converting each in the manner best suited to him; gân-gis kyan = èis-kyan by all means; gân-gis kyan dgós-pa méd-pa altogether useless Mil.; gan dan gan Cs., Sch. (more frq. gan dui èi) every thing whatsoever Gl.

The word is of course not to be found in literature. Some derive it from 'Feringhi', which term, in the slightly altered form of pa-rán, pe-rán, is current in C., along with the above mentioned rgya-pi-lin; it is therefore not improbable, that pi-lin represents only the more vulgar pronunciation of the genuine Tibetan word pyi-glin, an out-country, a distant foreign country and esp. Europe, *Chr. སྒོམ་པ་ sgóm-pa. I. vb., pf. *bsgom*s, fut. bsgom, imp. sgom(s), resp. fugs sgóm-pa (Ssk. भू, causative भावय) 1. originally: to fancy, imagine; meditate, contemplate, consider, c. accus. and dat.; to have, to entertain, to produce in one's mind, = skyéd-pa, e. g. bzód-pa, snýñ-rje, byams-pa etc.; rgyñ-du nam འོ་ཇི་ ཇོ་མེད་ sgom always consider that it is uncertain at what time you shall die Mil.; with the accus. and termin., or with a double accus.; to look upon, to represent to one's self as . . ., gró-drug-séms-čan ཉ་མ་མའ་ sgom look upon the beings of the six classes as being your parents Mil., viz. with the same respect and affection, or even so, that you imagine your father's or your mother's soul inhabiting just now the animal body of one of those beings; rmi-lam སྒྱུ་མ་ sgom look upon it as being the illusion of a dream Mil. — 2. In later times sgóm-pa became the usual term for the systematic meditation of the Buddhist saint, so that this word, and the expressions tin-ñe-dzin-du ཉུང་པ་, and bsam-ýtán སྒྲུབ་པ་, which in classical writings denote the concentration of the mind upon one point or subject, e. g. upon a certain deity, lha, prob. imply one and the same thing. Three degrees of this systematic meditation are to be distinguished, viz. ltá-ba contemplation, sgóm-pa meditation, properly so called, (which requires ysal dan mi-rtog ná-yyeñs ysum, i. e. that it be performed in a clear and decided manner, without suffering one's self to be disturbed or distracted by any thing), and the third degree spyód-pa, exercise and practice, which three distinctions will be somewhat elucidated by the following: bzá(-bai)-ýtad(-so) རྩ་པ་ རྩ་པ་ མེད་པ་ min, byñ-rgod yód-na sgóm-pa min, blñu-dor yód-na spyód-pa min, if one lives plentifully, there is no contemplation (possible); where there is inattention and a distracted mind, meditation cannot take place; where there is desire or disgust, exercise and practice are not (to be thought of) Mil. 14, 11. Hence contemplation would seem to be more immediately opposed to the rule of sense, meditation to the rule of imagination, practice to the rule of passion; v. also Was. (137), Köpp. I, 585. Sometimes contemplation and meditation are also opposed to fós-pa, and bsám-pa, hearing and knowing, as to mere acts of memory and intellect. — sgóm(-pa)-po ཇོམ་པ་, sgom-byéd, sgóm-mkan Mil. one that meditates, an ascetic; sgóm-ma fem. Mil. — sgom-ñen 1. a great meditator (so Mil. often calls himself). 2. a kind of field-mouse, Lagomys badius Hook. II, 156. — sgom-tig 'meditating-cord', a cord or rope slung by the laxer sects round their bodies, in order to facilitate the effort of maintaining an erect and immoveable posture during meditation, which expedient of course is scorned by the more rigid devotees.

སྐྱེ་ལྷོ་) 1. to complete, finish, perform, carry out, an order, a wish, hence usually with bzin-du Dzl.; to make, achieve, manufacture, obtain, attain, diül-rdo-la diul bsgrüb-tu btüb-pa ltar séms-can-la Sañs-rgyäs bsgrül-tu btüb-pa yin-no in like manner as silver is obtained from silver-ore, Buddha may proceed from beings Thgy.; don sgrüb-pa to attain to one's aim, to obtain a blessing, a boon; tse dii don sgrüb-pa to care for the wants of this life; to procure, rgyágs-pýe flour, as provision for a journey Mil.; nor sgrüb-pa to gain riches; to furnish with, to supply, one's self or others Mil. — 2. lha-sgrüb-pa implies, in accordance to Brahmanic-Buddhistic theology, not so much the making a deity propitious to man (Cs.), as rendering a god subject to human power, forcing him to perform the will of man. This coercion of a god seems to be effected in a twofold manner. The practise of the common people is to perform a vast amount of prayers and conjurations, specially intended for the god that is to be made subject. Another method is adopted by saints, who are advanced in every kind of religious knowledge. They continue their sgóm-pa, or profound meditation, for months and years, until the deity, finally overcome, stands before them visible and tangible, nay, until they have been personally united with and, as it were, incorporated into the invoked and subjected god. Whilst the conatus, the labouring in this arduous undertaking, is often called sgrüb-pa, the arriving at the proposed end is designated by grüb-pa, e.g. rgyál-por rta-mgrin sgrüb-pa nulzäd-pas grüb-nas rta-sküd btön-pas etc., the king began to coerce Taḥlin (Hayagrüwa), and when the latter was made obsequious, so as to appear, a neighing was heard etc. Glr.; sgom-sgrüb byéd-pa for sgóm-pa dai sgrüb-pa byéd-pa Mil. — bsgrub-käu, sgrub-ynäs, sgrub-püg the house, the place, the cavern, where a saint applies himself to sgrüb-pa; sgrüb-pa-po one effectuating the coercion described above, Sambh. frq. — sgrub-rtágs tokens, proofs of perfection, of an accomplished saint. — sgrub-tábs the method of effecting the coercion, of obliging a god to make his appearance; sgrub-byéd 1. he that accomplishes the coercion (cf. Schl. p. 247). 2. a kind of bile Med. — sgrub-ṅśén the Bon-doctrine Mil.

This saying, the tendency of which is often justified by the sophism, that it is an act of mercy to kill an enemy of the faith and thus prevent him from accumulating more sin, shows that even 'mild Buddhism' is not incapable of bloody fanaticism, and instances like that of king Lan-dar-ma of old, and of the recent martyrdom of Roman Catholic christians at Bonga confirm this fact from experience.

ཅི་ ci I. interr. pron. in direct questions:

1. what? (C. gen. guñ instead of ci) ci šes (like the Hind. क्या जाने) who knows? col. W.; also pleon. at the end of a question after the . . . am: ūa úó-šes-sam ci? do you know me? do you? Dzl.; ci of whom? whose? followed by γyir, don, čed, slad (-du): why? wherefore? inst. of čü pyir also ci-pyir etc.; de čü γyir žé-na 'this wherefore? (= why this?) if so it is asked'. (This phrase, besides the gerundial particles — esp. pas — is the only way in which in B. the causal conjunction 'for' (Lat. nam, enim) can be expressed, and in translating into Tibetan, the English conjunction must therefore often be altogether omitted.) čü brás-bu what sort of fruit? čü ri what kind of a mountain? i.e. of what consisting? Pth.; ci also, like an adj., is placed after the word to which it belongs: rgyu ci-las for what reason? on what account? Thgy. — 2. why? wherefore? but only in negative questions: bdäg-la des čü ma čog why should not that suffice me? Thgy.; ci mi sgrub why do you not procure . . .? inst. of the imp. procure! Mil.; bsám-na čü ma legs if you considered . . ., why would not that be a good thing? = you had better consider, you ought to consider Mil.; frq.: de byün-na čü ma rui if that happened, why should it not be desirable? = would that it happened! oh, may it happen! — 3. how? in conjunction with other words, v. below. — 4. inst. of a note of interrogation, e.g. in: čü ynañ, for ynañ-ñam, γšéys-par čü ynañ do you allow(me) to come? Dzl. ཅུ་, 13; རྩེ. 5.

II. correlatively: which, what; whatsoever; every thing, much like guñ, q.v. esp. the syntactical explanations given there. ci, as a correlative, ought prop. always to be written ji, yet not even in decidedly correlative sentences is this strictly observed: ci byed(-na-ñi) whatever I may do Glr.; ci bygi bka nyan(-te) účed-kyis bsgrub whatever we may be bidden to do, we shall obediently perform Pth.; ci myur, also ci myur žig-la Pth. as quick as possible;

also ci alone: by all means, at all events, spyān ci drañs he must be conducted here at all events Glr.

ཅི་ལིམ་ ci-lim (Hind. چالم 1. the bowl of a hukka (water-pipe). — 2. a hukka.

ཅི་ཚེ་ ci-tse Kun., also tsé-tse, millet.

ཅིག་ ciḡ, enclitic, a modification of yciḡ, after s usually changed into šiḡ, after vowels, and the liquids ñ, n, m, r, l into zig (exceptions, however, in provincialisms and in literature are not unfrequent) 1. after nouns, the indefinite article a, or a few, when following after a plural; sometimes also untranslatable: bud-méd-dag ciḡ some women; mán-po zig many (sometimes expressly opp. to mán-po, the many, Tar. 7, 15); gañ zig v. gañ; a little, some, šiñ zig kú-ru gro dgos I must go and pick up some fire-wood Mil.; after infinitives: krims dañ gál-ba zig byéd-pa to commit a trespass, to make one's self guilty of a transgression Dzl.; tse jós-pa gráns-med-pa zig myañ he suffered innumerable deaths Dzl.; it is even added to numerals, and not only when 'nearly', 'about' or similar words leave a given number undefined (mi lña tsam zig some five people), but also in sentences like the following: ču-miḡ bzi zig yod there are four springs or fountains. In all these cases, however, it may also be omitted. The numeral for 'one' ought always to be written yciḡ and never ciḡ, but prefixing the y is so often neglected (e.g. in tabs ciḡ-tu, lhan ciḡ etc.) that even grammarians let it pass. — 2. when affixed to verbs (to the root of the imp. mood, or, in negative sentences, to the root of the present tense) it is a sign of the imperative. In ancient literature it is used without reference to rank, whether it be in making prayers to Buddha, or in giving orders to a servant; at present in C. only in the latter way; in W. it is of rare occurrence.

ཅིང་, འིང་, རིང་ ciñ, šiñ, zñ, a gerundial particle, the initial letter of which is changed acc. to the rules obtaining for ciḡ; it corresponds to the English participle in ing, is used in sentences beginning with when, after, as, and is affixed to verbal roots and adjectives, in the latter case including the auxiliary verb to be: jsón-por dūr-du bèḡg-ciñ bui ša zá-bar gyür-čig (= bčüg-nas, or bčüg-ste) may I, after having been buried alive, be obliged to eat my own son's flesh! Dzl.; usually however employed in the minor clauses of accessory sentences: brós-siñ gáb-pas having hid themselves after running away Dzl.; frq. also where coordinate ideas are in English connected by and or but: śá-la zá-ziñ krág-la fññ-ba eating flesh and drinking blood; čé-ziñ léys-pa tall and well-shaped; drod yñód-čün bsil-ba pán heat is hurtful (but), cold is beneficial Lt. It is also used like the ablative of the gerund in Latin: nya bšór-ziñ fśó-o we live by fishing (piscando) Dzl.; and = kyin (q.v.): ri-la dran-sroñ byéd-čün dūg-go he sits on the mountain acting the part of an anchorite Dzl.; smre-súags dón-čün dūg he sits wailing Dzl.; rain-dgár gró-ziñ yda he is wandering at pleasure Mil.; čes smrá-ziñ yód-pa-la as they were thus speaking Glr.; čos stón-čün yód-pai tse as he was just giving religious instruction Tar. 11, 12.

ཅེ་ས་ čes 1. (Lex. ཇེ་སི), also šes and žes (cf. čig) so, thus, in ancient literature regularly placed after words or thoughts that are literally quoted, and so continuing the sentence; the quotation itself is gen. preceded by di skád-du, or di snyám-du. In later literature čes and the introductory words are often omitted, in col. language always. Inst. of čes smrás-so, čes ysúns-so, so he said, thus he spoke, so has been said or spoken, so it is said, often only čés-so is used, and in like manner čés-pa for čes smrás-pa, this word, this speech; čés-pa-la sogs-pa these and similar words; čés-pa di yañ also the preceding poem (is written by him); snyun žés-pa nád-kyi miñ yin the word snyun is a term for 'disease' Zam.; žés(-pa) dan 'such, and', if a quotation is followed by another, where we say 'further', 'moreover'; čés-pa-la after words have been quoted, which form the subject of further discussion; čes byá-ba, or čés-pa the so called, frq. after names; čés-su rarely for čes. — 2. acc. to the usual

This, or a similar original meaning of the word is also to be traced in an expression usual in Ld.: čog-mdo a place where three roads meet, v. mdo; cf. also čag. When affixed to a word, it must be preceded by the vowel o, the final consonant of the root being at the same time repeated. Affixed to verbs, it seems to convert them into participles: čóns-so-čog-la Dzl. ༡, 6, to those arrived, to the (persons) arrived, yin-no-čog, yód-do-čog those being, existing (things or persons); Cs.: γčés-so-čog things that are valuable, precious, to a man.

ཆགས་པ་ čags-pa I. frq. for čag-pa 2.

II. vb. to be begotten, produced; ma-čags-pa not begotten or produced in the usual way of propagation, but = ručús-te skyés-pa, or lhän-gyis grüb-pa Pth. frq.; mnäl-du čags-pa to be produced in the womb, as the foetus is; hence čags in compounds: animal, dab-čags, γsog-čags winged animal, bird; srog-čags in general: a living being, an animal, = séns-čan; γprül-gyi tsul-čags Gl. prob. as much as a wonderful child, a prodigy; šin-la čags-pa to grow on a tree, of fruits; and in general: to rise, arise, spring up, originate, of the world, of new works, buildings, empires, customs, of eruptions on the skin; zil-pa čags son W. dew has fallen; to come forth, to appear, = byün-ba, e.g. čod-du čags-pa to come to light, to appear Mil.; iul čags W. sweat comes forth, breaks out, I perspire; even: ráb-tu čags-pa = ráb-tu byün-ba to become a cleric (little used); čags-rábs genesis, history of the beginning, esp. of the world; čags-tsul 1. manner of beginning, origin, pro-creation Med. 2. W. form, figure, demeanour, čags-tsul sóg-po coarse, rude, rough.

III. 1. vb. to love, (éqān), bü-mo-la a girl; skyés-pa dan na-čün γčig čags-pa the mutual affection between a man and a maiden; tender attachment in general, connubial, parental and filial love, γül-la čags-pai bü-mo-rnams my dearly beloved daughters Pth.; ardent desire or longing

According to Buddhistic theory all čágs-pa is a great evil, as it betrays a troubled state of mind, and a reprehensible attachment to external things; yet even a saint, so far advanced in dispassion and apathy as Milaraspa, may sometimes be caught in very tender affections and sensations of čágs-pa, very like those of other human creatures.

Comp. čágs-sdái 1. Schr. love and hatred, 2. Gl., Pth. jealousy (love showing itself in hatred), also čágs-sdái-gi prag-dog. — čágs-spyód coition, copulation, cf. čágs-pa III., 2. — čágs-žen, also žen-čágs = čágs-pa sbst. Mil.; čágs-žen dō-čē W., to love, c. la; čágs-žen méd-pa dispassionate, indifferent to all terrestrial things. — čágs-séms = čágs-žen. — čágs-sred-čan Pth. lustful, libidinous, wanton.

Here the process of brewing may be mentioned. When the boiled barley (Ld.

sbo-bód, Ts. fab) has grown cold, some pabs (q. v.) is added, after which it is left standing for two or three days, until fermentation commences, when it is called glum. Having sufficiently fermented, some water is poured to it, and the beer is considered to be ready for use. If proper care is taken (and the people of Ü and Ladak generally do so), the pale beer, thus obtained, is not amiss, and sparkles a good deal, but not being hopped it does not keep long. The people of Lahoul are accustomed to press out the glum with their hands, instead of filtering it, and mismanage the business also in other respects, so that their čan is a gray muddy liquor, that has hardly any resemblance to beer. The residue of malt, called sbán-ma, may be mixed with water or milk, pressed through a strainer, and used instead of barm in baking bread, cakes etc.

People from C. knew only one signification of ytán-pa, viz mortar, = ytun; bar, door-bar occurs in sgo-ytán C. and W. But a different word seems to be ytan: 1. order, system, in the current phrase ytán-la bébs-pa to put in order, to arrange, to reduce to a system, bre-srán measure and weight Glr., the Tibetan alphabet Glr., the civil law and the canon law Glr., laws, books, = to compose, draw up, write Glr.; ran-séms ytán-pa in a mystic sense: to regulate, compose, and purify the mind Glr.; also to fashion, to train C., to set right Mil. (Cf. bsam-ytán.) — 2. duration, perh. also entireness, completeness, hence ytán-gyi constant, continual, ytán-grogs consort, partner for life Mil.; ytán-méd Sch.: 'perishable, without duration or continuity'; ytán-du 1. always, continually, for ever, ytán-du bzúgs-pa living there continually Tar. 2. entirely, completely (which is the usual

དང་ dan, postp. c. accus, with (Lat. cum), na dan with me (often with the addition of bčás-pa, lhan-žyčig, mnyám, q. v.), e.g. to go, speak, play, quarrel with; bud-méd dan nyāt-ba to lie with a woman; in some cases it must be omitted in English, or rendered by other words, as: gron-kyér dan nyé-ba, rin-ba near the town, far from the town; de dan dra-ba equal to that. Some particular ways of using dan are the following: 1. for and, yser dan diñl dan lčags-la-sōgs-pa gold, and silver, and iron, and the other (metals). The shad is here always put after dan, which shows that in the mind of the Tibetan dan never ceases to be a postposition; it can therefore be used only for connecting nouns and pronouns. In enumerations it is employed in different ways, and often quite arbitrarily, e.g. after every single noun or pronoun except the last one, or also after the last; it is used or omitted just as the metre may require it; or when a sum is mentioned, in the following manner: byin-ba bži ni: sa (dan) ču (dan) me (dan) rtuñ dan bžio the four elements: earth, and water, and fire, and air, four they are; or, esp. in col. language, thus: sa dan žyčig, ču dan ynyis etc. — 2. distributively: žag dan žag, lo dan lo, day by day, every year; kyim dan kyim-na Tar. every one in his house. — 3. after a personal pronoun col. almost like a sign of the plural: na dan ynyis-ka we two, both of us. na dan tsān-ma all of us. — 4. after the inf., and in W. after the gerund in gin, nyi-ma śār-ba dan at sun-rise, as soon as the sun rises, when the sun rose; lo brgya lón-pa dan when a hundred years had (or shall have) passed away, after a hundred years; smrás-pa dan kyim-du soñ with saying so, he went home, is gen. translated: he said so and went home, and so frq. in narration; W.: šug-ča ton dan with a whistling, tōn-gin žig dan at beholding. — 5. after an imperative for and, sgo rduns šig dan de-dag on-nio knock at the door, and they will come Dzl.; yid-la byos šig dan bšād-do give heed, and I will explain it to you Stg.; or it is used in the following manner: lēgs-par sems šig dan ma nór-ram consider it well; have you not made a mistake there? nyon čig dan siñon-dus-na listen to me!

Now, there was in olden times etc. Dzl. and elsewh., frq.; lon' zig dan ná-la dbái yod do take it! I have the power, you know, i.e. I shall answer for it Dzl.; in more recent times it is used (also when not followed by any other words) as an imperative particle = zig: 'da zo dan' byas-pas saying 'eat!' Glr.; 'da ltos dan' ysuñs 'now just see', he said Mil.; even after zu, which in its application is like a verb in the imperative: 'ysuñ-ba zu dan' zes zér-bas saying 'pray, teach (us)!' Mil. — 6. In W. dan is used improperly for the instrum.: bér-ka dan duñ strike with the stick! and for by or through with respect to persons: yóg-po dan sab-sób zer he cheats me, tells me a lie, through his servant.

དང་ dan 1. meadow Lh. — 2. dan, or perh. better tan, (cf. tin), tan tán-èe*, or tan cò-èe, *tan san cò-èe, to read in a singing or drawling manner Ld. — 3. dán-du lén-pa, c. la, to submit, yield to, comply with, Glr., Tar.; c. accus. submissively to put up with (Sch. and Wts. are hardly right).

Its usual rendering, however, is 2. holy, sacred, blá-ma dām-pa, skyés-bu dām-pa, a holy Lama, a holy man, and most frq. dám-pai čos, dām-pa čos, dām-čos, the holy doctrine, the holy religion of Buddha. Yet, in the interpretation of passages the original meaning (noble, excellent) ought to be resorted to much oftener. So also gyóg-mo dām-pa žig Glr. signifies an excellent, a favourite female slave, but not exactly a holy or a faithful one.

As these various conditions are partly characteristics of 'humanity', and attainable only by human

Whether, when bdén-pa nyis are mentioned, they refer to two of the just named realities, or whether they always denote absolute (objective) truth (don-dám-pai bdén-pa) and subjective truth (kun-rizčób-kyi bdén-pa) as mentioned by Was. (293), I am not prepared to decide, nor am I able to explain the meaning of lám-gyi bdén-pa and góg-pai bdén-pa (Thgy. frq.). bden-pa-nyid seems to be a technical term for truth, though the Buddhist understands by it nothing but ston-pa-nyid. Nevertheless, the possibility of its being misapprehended from this reason ought to be no obstacle to the word being used in its original sense, and re-established in its proper right, the more so, as Buddhist philosophy makes but a mockery of truth, by identifying it with a negation of reality. — 2. = bden-tsig, v. below, Mil.

འདྲེ་བྱེད་ du-byéd, Ssk. संस्कार, (the Tibetan word is nothing but a literal translation of the Ssk. saiskāra; cf. also du-šes and šin-po) 'one of the obscurest and most difficult terms of Buddhist philosophy' Köpp. I, 603, where the various translations are enumerated that have been attempted, such as: idea, notion, imagination (cf. Burn. I, 503), action (Was.) etc. It should, however, at once be acknowledged, that the word cannot be translated into a European language, as the meaning given to it is not the result of honest research and observation, but a product of arbitrary and wild speculation.

འདྲེ་འཇིག་ du-dzi noise, bustle, din, clamour, du-dzi méd-pai dbén-pa di this solitude without any noise Mil.; du-dzi-la ynäs-pa to live in the midst of the bustle of worldly affairs; du-žin, du-lön Cs. id.

འདྲེ་ཤེས་ du-šes, Ssk. संज्ञा ('con-scientia') corresponds in most cases to our idea, notion, conception, image, although sometimes perception, feeling, sense, thought, consciousness may be employed for it: nór-la rdag - tu yód - pai du - šes skyéd - pa to combine with earthly goods the idea of constant possession S.O. and thus frq.; lüs-la grui du-šes žüg-pa to unite with the human body the idea of a ship, to represent the body as a ship, Thgy.; skyó-bai du-šes byun the perception, the feeling of discomfort arises S.g.; kiró-bai du-šes-spán-ba to detest the idea, the thought of anger Dzl.; dgé-bai pyógs-la du-šes čün-zäd kyan ma ryoš no thoughts, no inclinations, tending to virtue, arose (in him), virtuous emotions never stirred in his mind; čägs-pai ḍu-ṣes-čan entertaining thoughts of sensual pleasure Gl.; ḍu-ṣes slar rnyed-pa to recover from a state of insensibility; as vb.: ḍu-ṣes-pa, mya-nan-ḍas tob ḍu-ṣes-te imagining that I shall obtain Nirwāna Thgy. As one of the five ḡūn-po it is translated by idea (Burn. I, 511), by perception (Köpp. I, 603). The three terms ḍu-ṣes-čan, ḍu-ṣes-méd-pa, ḍu-ṣes-med-min may be rendered: having the faculty of thinking, having no faculty of thinking, neither thinking nor not thinking (Dzl. 225, 7), ḍu-ṣes-čan refers to human beings, the two other terms relate to celestial beings (v. Köpp. I, 261, 17 and 26), that are evidently so much the more excellent and exalted, as they are far above all reasoning and thinking. According to another, and (it would seem) more natural interpretation, the first of these three terms implies rational beings (man), the second irrational beings (higher animals), and the third quite irrational creatures (lower animals, worms, reptiles, that are not even possessed of the sensitive powers of the higher animals), whilst the 'long-lived Lhas' of the 17th. heaven are classed together with the common Lhas (who however taken strictly, belong to the 'first world') and on account of their stupidity are believed to be incapable of ever being converted, Thgy.

འདྲུག་པ་ ḍug-pa (eleg. ḡdā-ba, resp. bḡḡugs-pa) 1. to sit, syn. with sdöd-pa; with na, la etc.; to sit down with termin. or la; to sit up (in bed); ḍug-par ḡḡyir to get seated Dzl. 55, 6; to remain sitting, to keep one's seat, Dzl. 55, 7; to remain, to stay, ḍir ma ḍug-par soñ ḡig Dzl.; to remain behind, to stay at home, with or without ḡyir, ḡyim-na etc. Dzl. — 2. to be, to exist, to live Gl.: . . . skabs-med 'ḍug-go' there is no chance of . . . (v. above 1), but not indicating a certain tense, e.g. rdol ḍug it makes its appearance, comes to light, Gl., bḡḡig ḍug they were destroyed Gl.; in col. language (in W. at least) it is gen. a sign of the pres. tense: zer ḍug I say, thou sayest etc.; only in Bul. it indicates the fut. tense. — 3. with the gerund in te or nas vulgo for the pres. or preterite tense, frq.; in B. of so rare occurrence, that it is prob. to be regarded as a vulgarism to be charged on the copyists, and to be cor-

In a similar manner it is frq. used, where we begin a new paragraph, heading it with its principal contents. In col. language the word before ni is rendered still more emphatic by repeating it once more after ni: zer ni zer dug W. (it is true) they say so; li ni li-te yod it has been written, (to be sure); he' ni jhe' C., do ni do dug W. (certainly) they are working at it, (but . . .). In metrical compositions, esp. in mnemonic verses, it is often added as a mere metrical expletive, without any meaning, esp. after dan. — 2. Ts.: demonstrative pron., ri ni - le ni to-wa dug this mountain is higher than that.

ལྷོ་མོ་ལྷོ་མོ་ sprül-ba (cf. ལྷོ་མོ་ལྷོ་མོ་ śprül-ba), to juggle, to make phantoms (sprül-pa) appear, to change, to transform (one's self), which according to the doctrines of Buddhism is the highest acquisition of any man, that by his own holiness has assumed divine nature, viz. as long as he is capable of acting, not having yet been absorbed into the blessed state of nothingness. This power of transformation on the part of the Buddhist is the evidence of what he understands by divine omnipotence; but as this conception is a mere product of fancy, it varies in its import. On the one hand it is opposed to reality, dios; thus e.g. beings, whom no Buddha could convert through his personal agency, sku-dhōs-kyi śgō-nas, are converted (acc. to Pth.) sprül-pai tābs-kyis. Frequently Buddha avails himself of jugglery, rdzu-śrül ston, converting thousands of beings in a trice, Dzl. & elsewh.; further: drāg-poi sprül-pa byās-pa yin Glr., I caused terrifying phantoms to appear, viz. the spectral bodies of executed culprits, in order to scare the rude Tibetans into the way of virtue. From the foregoing it is evident that the term in question by no means conveys the scriptural idea of a creative and miraculous power; the Tibetan, however, when he becomes acquainted with christianity, is always apt to substitute his sprül - pa or rdzu-śrül, and sprül-ba for it. On the other hand, a real and material existence is as often attributed to a sprul-pa, when it designates the incarnate and embodied person, the Avatāra of a deity, (Mongol. Chubilgan), who like any human being is capable of acting, and exerting an influence on the material world around him, or of suffering by it, without any doctic admixture. Occasionally it is also to be translated by emanation: yān-sprul, emanation of the second degree, i.e. one emanation going forth from another; nyin - sprul or ysim-sprul, an em. of the third degree Pth.; sprül-pa gyéd - pa, to let emanations go forth, Lexx. — Further: sprül-pa mkyén-pa, to be an adept in the art of sprül-pa, i.e. witchcraft, Glr.; ri ynyis sprül-te producing two mountains by magic, Dzl.; ... mtō-ba . . . bžugs-pa sprül-nas, changing himself into a high enthroned person, Dzl.; dge- slón žig-tu, transforming himself into a friar, Dzl. frq.; dúd-gro tsim-par sprul-ba, to satiate animals by fictitious food Dzl.; tams-čád sprul-par dūg-pa, these were all metamorphoses, mocking phantoms, Glr.; skulūs-kyi sprul-pa bryya-rtsa-bryyád mdzád-de or sprul-te, to centuple one's self, Glr.; sprul-pai rgyál-po, the phantom-king, viz. Buddha, Avalokitesvara, or some other divine person, incarnate as a king; gañ-la-gañ-dül-gyi sprul-pa, all-converting Avatara, frq.

ལྷོ་ spre, gen. spreu, rarely spre (Ld. šreu; sprü) monkey, of a grayish yellow brown, common in the forests of the southern Himalaya, (cf. spra); sometimes a distinction is made between spre and spra, in which case the former is the long-tailed monkey. — spre-mo, female monkey, Cs.; yet also spreu žár-ma, a blind female monkey, Dzl.; spre-šrúg, young monkey. — spre-rtšéd, apish tricks; foolery.

ལྷོ་ spró-ba I. vb. pf. spros, prop. the transitive of šró-ba to make go out, to disperse, to spread; gen. however intransitive: 1. to go out, to proceed, to spread, of rays of light, of the wind, Wdn. — 2. fig. to enlarge upon, by way of explaining, representing, Zam., Pth.; šig-las sprós-pa, Was. (115), enlarging (proceeding) from the number one in an ascending progression of numbers; rnám-par sprós-pa, to have come to a full development and restoration from the consequences of sins, Stg.

བ ba 1. the letter b, originally, and in the frontier districts still at the present day, corresponding to the English b; the pronunciation of it, however, varies a good deal in the different dialects of the country: in C. this letter, as an initial, is at present deep-toned and aspirated = bh; in Sp. as a final letter, it is softened down to w; and this softening of its sound prevails throughout Tibet in the substantive terminations ba and bo, when preceded by a vowel or by ñ, r, l; as a prefix it is sounded in Bal. and Kh. = b or w. མོ་ mo, I. num. figure: 136.

II. woman, female, opp. to pó, = bud-méd: mo na-re the woman said Glr., Mil.; of animals: female. — mo-kyán W. virgin. — mo-gós woman's gown, petticoat. — mo-brgyúd female line of descent. — mo-bi female calf. — mo-byis Mil., mo-dbyis (mo-yi) C. girl, female child. — mo-btsün nun Glr. — mo-mtsán, moi dbán-po female genitals. — mo-rán(-mo) 1. single, unmarried woman, so perh. in the passage, γdoñ nán-gyi kyó-bas mo-rán skyid happier is a single woman than one with a husband of a bad face; more frq., the word implies 2. a poor, destitute female, one who did not get a husband W. 3. she, herself C., Lew. — mo-ri, mo-ré a female kid. — mo-rigs female sex. Cs. — mo-lús the female body Sch. — mo-γsám a barren female, hence mo-γsám-gyi bu a non-sense, an incongruity.

III. lot, mo dēbs-pa to cast the lot, always a religious ceremony performed by Lamas (cf. rgyan and rtags-ril), which however does not preclude the possibility of an imposture; mó-pa one dealing with these practices, a soothsayer, mó-pa dre mtón-ba a soothsayer that pretends to have seen a ghost; mó-mkan Cs., mó-rtsis-pa Glr. id. (the latter expression in the respective passage = court-astrologer); mo-ma the feminine of it Cs., which however is at variance with Mil., who in several places has bla-ma mkas-pai mo-ma.

IV. affix, so-called article, corresponding to the masc. terminations po and pa, and denoting the fem. gender of persons, bú-mo daughter, bód-mo a Tibetan woman.

བཅོལ་བ་ btsól-ba v. རྩོལ་བ་.

རྩ་ rtsa I. sbst., more col. rtá-ba (W. sá-wa) or rtá-bo S.g. 5, 1. vein, rtsa yèd-pa to open a vein Dzl., sá-wa gyáb-čé W. id. Owing to the imperfect state of Indian and Tibetan anatomy, resulting from inveterate prejudices both of a religious and intellectual nature, great confusion prevails also in the department of angiology, many different vessels of the human body, and even part of the nerves being classed among the veins, so that it is impossible to find adequate terms for the Tibetan nomenclature. This applies e.g. to the division of the rtsa in čags-pai, srid-pai, brél-pai, and tséi or sróg-gi rtsa, which last term does not correspond to what we understand by artery (Čs.); so it is also with respect to the three principal veins, which by a mystic theory are stated to proceed from the heart, dbú-ma the middle one, white, rkyán-ma the left one, red, and ró-ma the right one, white, concerning which cf. the articles rtum-mo and fig-le; rtsa-dkár, also rlün-rtsa Med., are perh. in most cases the same as artery, acc. to the well-known supposition of the ancients, that the veins of dead men, appearing empty, contain air; par-rtsa id., as in the living body it pulsates; rtsa-nág or krág-rtsa, vein, blood-vessel; rtsa-sbúbs is mentioned Lt. 147, 10, as a surgical instrument. Some names are more or less clear: mig-rtsa seems to be the Vena fac. ext., rtsa-čün Vena jugul. ext., rtsa-čen or rtsa-bo-čé V. saphena magna, řo-mtsan-ghi dbus-rtsa V. dorsalis penis. rgyü-grog-rtsa, on the other hand, are the ureters, ni f., which are represented as proceeding from the small intestine. — rtsa-rgyus Med. 1. Sch.: 'veins and sinews' (?); rtsa-rgyus-gag an obstruction of the veins S.g. 2. title of a book: Directions how to feel the pulse. — rtsa-čüs, C. rtsa-dus cramp. — rtsa-mdiud an inturgescence of the veins. — rtsa-ynás Mil. seems to be a net of veins, vascular plexus, any connection of things that may be compared to it, as e.g. the causal connection of the 12 Nidanas (v. rtén-brel sub rtén-pa comp.) — rtsa-spün tissue of veins Sch. — 2. pulse, so in rtsa ltá-ba, or rtog-pa Med. to feel one's pulse, and mtson-, kan-, or čag-rtsa the feeling one's pulse with the second, third or fourth finger.

II. sbst., for rtá-ba.

III. particle in conjunction with numerals: 1. gen. connecting the tens with the units, equivalent to and: nyi-šu-rtsa-ycig twenty and one; less frq. after brgya and ston, where also dan-rtsa is not unusual, yet examples as the following: S.g., fol. 5, where the sum of 62, 33, 95 and 112 is stated to be = sum-brgya-rtsa-ynyis, and Pth. p. 34, twice bia-brgyá-rtsa ycig = ston-dan-rtsa-ynyis, — exclude any doubt as to the proper use of the word. — 2. inst. of nyi-šu-rtsa-ycig to nyi-šu-rtsa-dgu, rtsa-ycig etc. is also used by itself, as an abbreviation, e.g. S.g. p. 3, in describing the growth of an embryo from week to week; this use of the word may account for the assumption, quite general in W. and C., that rtsa in itself is equivalent to 20, for even Lamas of both districts could be convinced only by an arithmetical proof, that the numbers

Gram.*, chronol. table; whether Sch.'s translation 'cause and effect' is altogether correct, may admit of some doubt, yet v. below; rt̄sá-ba dañ grél-ba Cs. 'text and commentary'; in rt̄sá-bai ma Thgy. the genitive case stands prob. for the apposition: the mother that is the root of me, in a similar manner as rt̄sá-bai ran-bžin nature Cs.; rt̄sá-bai blá-ma seems to denote the teaching priest, the one by whom in any particular case the instruction is given, opp. to brgyud-pa, he to whom it is imparted. A good deal of confusion however prevails here, owing to the ambiguity of the verbal form in brgyud-pa and the variable spelling;

v. rgyüd-pa extr. — rtsa-tór Sch.: 'lower end and top' (?) Note. rtsa, vein, is traced by Tibetan scholars back to rtsá-ba, the veins being the 'roots of life'; in a dictionary the words are better treated separately.

Besides this form, there exists also a verb sán-ba, pf. (b)sáns, to clean, as may easily be proved by examples. The whole will perh. become clear, if we presume, that the form tsán-bu for the present tense is now obsolete, occurring only in reference to Buddha, as quoted above, and that the root sán is now used as present tense in the following significations: 1. to remove (impurities) — like dug-pa — to make clean, dan sân - te med W. (the soot) having yesterday been removed, there is none just now; sai dug, sai ços W. it is cleansed, swept clean, bag sai, nyé-pa sai the contamination, the sin, has been removed, done away with C.; snyun sañs* the disease is removed Pth.; skyo-sañs byéd-pa* to remove melancholy, to recreate or amuse one's self; to comfort others; skyo-sañs-la gró-ba, skyo-sañs byéd-pa* to take a walk, to take a ride Pth., C.; mya-nán sân-ba* to comfort Pth., to console one's self; esp. 2. to recover, to come again to one's senses, ra-ro-ba-las from intoxication Dzl.; zim-pa-las* from a deep sleep Dzl.; also construed as before: bzi Gbr., *ra W. from a drunken fit, and this agrees with a sufficiently authenticated signification of the Ssk. root budh, so that sañs-rgyás would after all be the literal translation of རུན (contrary to Burn. I., 71 med.), taking the signification of the name, accord. to Tibetan notions, to be: 'the man that has entirely recovered from error and come to the knowledge of absolute truth'. That sañs-rgyás be the same as perfect, holy, seems to be a mere etymological conjecture of Cs. — 3. to take away, to take off, keb sân-wa C. to uncover. — 4. to be spoiled, to become unfit, useless, wó-ma sañ son C. the milk is spoiled, zom sañ dug = sañ dug the casks are leaky, are running out.

kró-bo; differently again the word is used in: zi-ba dan kró-ba dan zi-ma-kró Pth., which has been explained by Sch. as: the medium between calmness and passion, 'calm indignation'. Cs. moreover mentions zi-ba or rtag-zi-ba, as 'a name or epithet of Iswara and certain Buddhas', so that zi-ba would be equal in sound as well as in meaning to शिव, zi-ba-pa and -ma being his male and female disciples. A good deal of obscurity attaches, further, to the frequent mention of the zi-rygas-dbañ-drag, as the characteristic properties of the four parts of the world (v. glñ), and likewise as qualities and functions of the Buddhas, gods and saints, viz. allaying diseases, conferring happiness and wealth, ruling over all creatures and subduing all that is unruly and hostile; to which are to be added four kinds of burnt-offerings, in the same four-fold sense, v. Schl. 250. Finally, in mysticism the term zi-ba acts a prominent part: zi(-bar) ynás(-pa) and lhag(-par) mñon(-ba), श्मथ and विपश्यन, shortened zi-lhag, implies an absolute inexcitability of mind, and a deadening of it against any impressions from without, combined with an absorption in the idea of Buddha, or which in the end amounts to the same thing, in the idea of emptiness and nothingness. This is the aim to which the contemplating Buddhist aspires, when, placing an image of Buddha, as rten, (v. rten 1) before him, he looks at it immovably, until every other thought is lost, and no sensual impressions from the outer world any longer reach or affect his mind. By continued practice he acquires the ability of putting himself, also without rten, merely by his own effort, into this state of perfect apathy, and of attaining afterwards even to dños-grub, the supernatural powers of a saint. The stories that are related of such achievements, and with which the work of Taranātha abounds, are, notwithstanding their absurdity, readily believed by every faithful Buddhist. That there are also cases of failures, cf. smyón-pa.

ཞུ་བ་ zu-ba I. vb., pf. zus (esp. in later writings and vulgo, in ancient literature gen. ysól-bar for it) signifies 1. every kind of speaking to a person of higher rank, therefore to request, to prefer a suit or petition, to make a report, to put a question etc., zu-zii ysól-ba-la gró-bai tse when I have to bring in a petition Dzl.; mnál-lam de yžán-la mi ysün-bar zu' zús-so* 'pray, do not relate the dream to others', he begged Glr.; ynái-bar zu byás-pas saying, 'I beg you will permit', Glr.; snar mčón-bai diós-po dé-dag zuo I will ask him about the things lately seen, I shall request an explanation of him Dzl.; ná-la gán-dag zu-ba de légs-so it is very right of you, thus to ask me about every thing Do.; rgyál-poi drün-du rmi-lam zús-pa he related the dream before the king Pth.; ston-pa zu (pa col. for par) I request (you) to explain Mil.; der byón-pa zu 'thither to come I request' Mil.; dé-la mkán-po zus they besought him to be their abbot Glr.; ynái-ba zu-ba to ask permission Cs.

Comp. lo-skor (Cs. also lo-kor) cycle of years, a period of twelve years; it is the usual manner of determining the exact time of an event, which also tolerably well suffices for the short space of a man's life. If for instance a person in a dog-year (e. g. 1874) says that he is a byi-lo-pa, it may be guessed by his appearance, whether he is 10 or 22, 34, 46 etc. years old, and thus also in other cases accidental circumstances must help to determine the precise date of an event. Occasionally, however, the cycles are counted, e. g. lo-skor brgyad 96 years Glr. Besides this cycle of 12 years there exists another of 60 years which is formed (in imitation of Chinese chronology) by combining those 12 names of animals with the names of the (so called) five elements, šin wood, me fire, sa earth, lčags iron, ču water. Each of these elements is named twice, followed, the first time by po, and the second by mo; which signs of gender may also be omitted without altering any thing in the matter. Thus šin(-po)-kyi-lo, šin(-mo)-pag-lo, me(-po)-byi-lo, me(-mo)-glan-lo are our years 1834, 35, 36, 37, and 1894, 95, 96, 97 etc. — *lo-krim*s (v. *lo-tóg-gi krim*s) ceremonies, at the beginning of harvest. — *lo-grán*s prop. date (of the year), Sch. also: *lo-grán*s tsán-ma being of (full) age. — lo-mgó Cs. the beginning of a year, སངས་རྒྱལ་ sañs - rgyás the Tibetan equivalent for बुद्ध; as to the etymology of the word v. sub. fsán-ba. The first historical Buddha is Sañs-rgyas šá-kyá túb-pa, whose family name is Gaú-ta-ma and his personal name Don-grúb, सिद्धार्त्त, which, however, is not much used. In course of time several imaginary predecessors were given to him: Od-srúñ, Gser-túb and Kor-ba-ò-jig, as having existed and reigned in former periods of the world. A successor also, Byáms-pa, was assigned to him, of whom it is supposed that he will reign at the period following this present one. According to others, however, Sákyatubpa was already the seventh Buddha that appeared on earth, the four above-named having been preceded by Tams-çad-skyób, Gtsug-tor-çan and Rnam-par-ýzigs, this last one being the first of them all. These seven Buddhas then are comprised under the name of Sañs-rgyas-rabs-bdín. — But the fertile imagination of devote Buddhists has further increased the number of future Buddhas to not less than one thousand(?), appropriate names for each of them have been invented, and Prof. Schmidt has thought it worth his while, to have these thousand names reprinted in a special pamphlet. Mysticism, however, generally knows only of the five first-named Buddhas (Gautama, his three predecessors and his first successor) and to each of these five 'human' Buddhas a celestial Buddha corresponds, called 'Dhyani Buddha' or the Buddha of contemplation, whilst to every Dhyani Buddha again his Dhyani Bodhisattwa is associated. In later times there is even mentioned a supreme or highest god, Adi-Buddha, tóg-mai Sañs-rgyás, which doctrine, however, seems not to have been generally accepted. — Cf. Köpp. II, 15—29.

ལྷ་ lha, Ssk. རྗེ་, 1. the first class of beings subject to metempsychosis, the gods, both those of Brahminical mythology, and the various national and local gods, with whom Buddhism came in contact. These local gods were incorporated into the system of Buddhism, when they were found to be too numerous and too much endeared to the people, to be entirely discarded and given up; so, most of them are worshipped even nowadays and presented with various offerings. They are also supposed to enjoy a blissful existence (hence: dé-rin thú-yi nyi-ma sar 'this day was a day of happiness to me' Gbr., and similar expressions are of frq. occurrence; v. also tha-yul) and to be possessed of qualities and capacities superior to those of ordinary human beings. Nevertheless, when compared with any Buddhist saint, they are considered to be of inferior rank and power; and a local 'tha' can never attain to Buddhahood, without having previously assumed the nature of man; v. Köpp. I, 122. 248. ཨ

ཨ a, 1. the consonant which is formed in the lowest and hindmost part of the organs of speech, being produced by the opening of the glottis, like the Greek spiritus lenis, the Hebrew Aleph and the Arabian Elif. (In our modern languages the opening of the glottis is not regarded as a consonant, nor expressed by a particular letter or sign.). Combined with the Tibetan vowel-signs, ཨ, ཨི, ཨུ, ཨེ, ཨོ, it is pronounced 'a, 'i, 'u, 'e, 'o (cf. ༨). It is also called skye-ba-méd-pai yi-ge, probably because all speaking depends on and is rendered possible only by a previous opening of the glottis; hence this letter is a symbol of the deity, of the čós-sku that was before every thing else. Spyan-ras-zig, therefore, addresses a celestial Buddha with 'a: 'a skye-méd rnam-däg čós-kyi dbyñs. — 2. num.: 30.

ཨྀྐ ཨྀྐ, Ssk. །ཨྀྐ, mystical interjection, in later Hindooism the symbol of the Hindoo triad, in as much as it consists of the three sounds, a (Vishnu), u (Shiva), and m (Brahma). This interjection frequently occurs in the prayers of the northern Buddhists of Tibet, and especially in the famous 'six-syllable prayer', །ཨྀྐ་མི་ཤི་བད་མི་ཤི་བྱེ་, om ma-

ñi pad-me hūm, the literal version of which is: 'O thou jewel in the lotus, hūm!' The person addressed in these words is not Buddha, but Spyan-ras-zyig (v. spyan); by some he is thought to be the author of them.

Concerning the import of this short apostrophe the best information is to be found Köpp. II, 59—61. — The Tibetans themselves are ignorant of the proper sense of these six syllables, if sense at all there be in them, and it is not unlikely that some shrewd priest invented this form of prayer, in order to furnish the common people with a formula or symbol, easily to be retained by the memory, and the frequent recital of which might satisfy their religious wants. And though there may be no obvious meaning in such exclamations or prayers, yet their efficacy is sure to be firmly believed in by a people, whose practical religion chiefly consists in the performance of certain rites and ceremonies, in a devout veneration of their Lamas, combined with frequent oblations to them, in abstaining from gross sins (regarding even the killing of live animals as such), and in the Pradakshina (v. skor-ba 2). — The numerous attempts that have been made to explain the Ommanipadmehūm satisfactorily, and to discover a deeper sense or even a hidden wisdom in it, have proved more or less unsuccessful. The most simple and popular, but also the flattest of these explanations is derived from the purely extrinsic circumstance, that the Sanskrit words of the prayer consist of six syllables, and accordingly it is suggested, that each of these syllables, when pronounced by a pious Buddhist, conveys a blessing upon one of the 'six classes of beings'. — The conjecture with which Köpp. closes his disquisition, is certainly nothing but a smart thought of that learned author.

Final remark. The Tibetan words, given in the Vocabulary, are not in every instance to be regarded as exact equivalents for whatever word happens to be sought, but rather as hints, how to attain to the wished for expression. It will, therefore, be frequently indispensable to refer to the Tib. Engl. Dictionary for further explanation, and to examine the different bearings and relations of the word in question, so far as they may have been traced there. — Although this Vocabulary is by no means complete in itself, yet it is to be hoped that it will not prove quite unuseful, but answer the purpose for which it was intended.

CORRECTIONS.

A revision of the Dictionary has brought such a number of misprints to light that, on second thoughts, it seems absolutely necessary not to leave them unnoticed, but to register all that are of any consequence. The unfortunate fact, that such corrections should be required, has to be ascribed to two circumstances, in regard to which the reader's indulgence has already been appealed to in the Preface, namely, the author's weak state of health, and the difficulties with which the printing of a book of this character is necessarily attended. —
